First Hostilities in Connection With Taking Over of Mines by State

National Guardsmen Fired Upon From Ambush—Fire Returned

STAUNTON, Ind., Aug. 4. (By the Associated Press.)—First hostilities in connection with the taking over of mines by the state occurred today when national guardsmen on guard duty were fired upon from ambush. The fire was returned by the guards and later the firing was taken up over the entire area. Automatic rifles were brought into action by the troops and the firing continued for more than an hour.

Reports received by Maj. Gen. Robt. Tyndall, in command of the troops, said that no one was injured. It was said, however, by some of the men on duty, that one man was slightly injured.

Investigation by military officials indicated that although the fighting lasted several hours, the attacking party was small. It was reported that several men from nearby towns came to this city and announced that they were going to "get a flock of soldiers." They fired on an outpost and the fire was immediately returned.

As a result of this action, whenever there was any movement in the woods nearby the guardsmen fired.

Officers in command of the troops belittled the affair, saying that it was a minor skirmish.

She was found not guilty on the illegal keeping charge, the drunkenness complaint was dropped, and she was ordered to pay a fine of $50. Each assault committed. SIX LOWELL MEN AND WOMEN PASS STATE BAR EXAMINATIONS

MISS LILLA S. CUTLER

As the result of examinations taken for admittance to the Massachusetts bar on July 1, two Lowell women and four Lowell men will become full fledged attorneys-at-law when sworn in before the supreme court. The majority of them have plans which will carry them into active practice within a month or two.

The six are: Miss Lilla S. Cutler, stenographer at police headquarters; Miss Mary V. Moloney of 177 Summer street, secretary in the office of J. A. Shaw, chairman of the Lowell school committee; Edward Lo Cam of 30 Haines avenue; Paul J. Angelo of 51

MISS MARY V. MOLONEY

Pond street and Joseph J. Coupe of 16 West Bowers street. Miss Cutler and Miss Moloney were graduated in June from the Portia Law school and respectively, were valedictorian and salutatorian of their class. Each won high honors for work of great distinction.

Miss Cutler in addition to her duties at police headquarters, also has served as stenographer in the mayor's office for several years. Her high honors and successful effort in the bar examination are the direct result of unremitting work and application to her law books.

Asphalt Question Settled at 2 A. M.

At an adjourned meeting called to order as the clock was tolling off the hour of midnight last night, and which did not break up until nearly 2 o'clock this morning, the board of public service agreed upon a new sheet asphalt requisition.

The new requisition is now in the purchasing agent's office and is signed by Dennis J. Murphy, George Bowers, Fred G. Leary, Stephen Kearney, George H. Brown and Harry P. Doherty.

The clause in the new requisition relative to labor reads as follows: "All labor in laying the material, except that done by necessary experts, is to be employed by the city and paid by the city. Work must be done to the satisfaction of the city engineer and the board of public service."

The bids will be advertised today.

Public Service Board Tries to Find Out How it Stands Financially

Supt. Doherty, Clerk Tuttle, Engineer Kearney and Chairman Murphy Debate

City Engineer Kearney claimed that transfers amounting to $10,000 could be made every month from loans to street maintenance and Chief Clerk Clinton P. Tuttle of the street department said it could not be done. Supt. of Streets Doherty charged the city engineer with spending the department's money and then of throwing upon him the burden of either laying off men or of not living within the department's appropriation. The book-keeping system now in use in the street department office was criticized by Chairman Dennis J. Murphy, who wanted to know why the system established by John C. Farrington was not being followed out, and Chief Clerk Tuttle replied the lack of cooperation and a shortage of help in his office made it impossible to carry out the wishes of the board.

All this occurred at last evening's meeting of the public service board during a discussion which arose over a letter sent by the City Engineer Kearney to Supt. Doherty, in which the engineer recommended that the street maintenance payroll be reduced from $6000 to $4000 a week, for unless such action was taken the appropriation would run out before Oct. 1.

Earlier in the day after reading the engineer's letter, Chairman Murphy stated that the recommendation meant the laying off of 150 men, but at last evening's meeting Engineer Kearney said that such drastic action was not necessary. He intimated that $10,000 could be transferred every month from the various loans of the department to the street maintenance fund.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon, with the last minute for filing nomination papers only three hours distant, 23 candidates for representatives in the three districts embracing Lowell's wards—the 14th, 15th and 16th—had filed the necessary papers for certification with the board of election commissioners.

GANG OF YOUTHFUL ROBBERS BROKEN UP

In juvenile court this morning one of the worst gangs of youthful robbers ever rounded up in the city was effectively disbanded by the return of one of them to the Lyman school and the commitment of two others to the same institution. Two more were put on probation, with the shadow of the school hanging over them if they trespass again. The youngest of the lot, a boy of 9, was turned over to the department of police welfare, represented by Boys' Probation Officer Charles H. Richardson. None of the boys had reached his 15th birthday.

CABINET TAKES UP BIG STRIKES

Today's Session Given Over to Discussion of Coal and Rail Situation

Hoover Explains Distribution of Coal Under Federal Control

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Members of President Harding's cabinet took to today's meeting reports on the coal and rail strikes as gathered by their respective departments. The session, it was indicated, was given over almost wholly to a discussion of the situation in the two industries.

Secretary Hoover announced that distribution of coal by the federal emergency control committee had been started under informal arrangements. These arrangements, he explained, have been made pending completion of the committee's organization and issuance of orders to take care of strategic points and necessary industries.

Attorney General Daugherty, on arriving at the White House for the cabinet session, said he had authorized appointment of a number of deputy marshals for duty in the vicinity of Des Moines where, according to reports received by the department of justice, disorders have occurred in connection with the rail strike.

Secretary Weeks announced he had received telegrams from officials of the striking shopmen denying that strikers were returning to work in large numbers, as has been claimed by some railroad executives. All of the cabinet members received with gratification word that an attempt is to be made at a conference here tomorrow to settle the strike so far as it affects the Southern Railway on the basis of the president's settlement proposal.

Mayor Addresses Council at Hearing on Purchase of Packard Cars

Achin Elected Assessor and Miller Bellefontaine to Library Board

HIGHLIGHTS OF MEETING

Unanimous confirmation of Chas. H. Holston, Major Frederick A. Estes and Thomas P. Boulger as a board of trustees for Memorial Auditorium.

Confirmation of Wilfred J. Achin as assessor to succeed Albert J. Blazon by vote of eight to seven.

Unanimous confirmation of Miller Bellefontaine as library trustee for term of five years.

Tabling of the nominations of Edward J. Donnelly for purchasing agent, Joseph Gormley for superintendent of charities, and Sarah R. Kittredge for superintendent of state aid.

Discussion of the Packard motor car purchases, about which little was accomplished, although discussion consumed two hours.

Continuance of the Arnold hearing and word combat between Mayor George H. Brown and Councilors Gallagher, Adams, McPadden, and Queenan.

Failure to act on nomination of Frank J. Rubin for assessor.

The one outstanding feature of last night's city council meeting, which lasted for nearly four hours and which fairly bristled with verbal tiffs between the mayor and members of the council, was the confirmation of Charles H. Holston, Thomas P. Boulger and Major Frederick A. Estes as a board of trustees for the Memorial Auditorium. Each man received the unanimous confirmation of the council, after Councilor Peter P. McMeniman had moved immediate consideration.

Every topic except the weather, and which were productive of little result, this session has not been equalled by the present body.

A continuance of the Packard motor car controversy furnished the real excitement during the two hours that the hearing was on, the mayor charged the council, through its committees, of attempting to run several city departments. Two councilors, Messrs. Sadler and Queenan, denied the mayor to prove these assertions; Councilor Adams threatened the mayor that "he would have him over the Central bridge" before they got through and Councilor Gallagher opined that politically none of the present members would survive.

ACHIN RAISES POINT AS TO LENGTH OF TERM

A point was raised today by Wilfred J. Achin, last night elected as an assessor by the city council, relative to the time he will be permitted to hold office. Mr. Achin contends that his term is for one year and that he should be in office until next August. He bases his contention on the fact that the charter states that an assessor may be elected for the term of one year and also on the fact that Mr. Blazon, whose place he has been designated to take, was a hold-over in office and had never been appointed by this administration.

Mayor Brown contends that the charter states the term will be for one year and will expire Jan. 1, 1923. When he first made out his nomination of Mr. Achin he inserted this time clause.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—It was Johnny Vallantoni's 12th birthday, so he took his chum, collected the neighborhood children and marched them down to a candy store temporarily closed by the owner. Climbing through the transom, Johnny began to celebrate his birthday by throwing hundreds of boxes of candy and cigars out to the children. The continuous riot and screaming of the crowd of children that grew like magic, soon attracted the police who halted the celebration after $500 worth of goods had been distributed. They took Johnny and his chum to the station followed by a line of birthday celebrants half a mile long.

Deadlock Continues in Chicago Strike

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—The fourth day of Chicago's street car strike saw representatives of the car companies and strike leaders in an apparent deadlock over terms for a settlement. Meanwhile Mayor Thompson and the city council were considering plans for the purchase and operation of city-owned motor busses through appropriations from the $30,000,000 traction fund. In a communication to the council yesterday, the mayor suggested appropriation of $3,000,000 for the purpose and Alderman Oscar Olsen introduced a resolution to that effect. Under the mayor's plan the busses would be operated on five cent fares.

FORESTERS COMPLETE PLANS FOR OUTING

Final arrangements for the outing to be held at Iteva beach next Sunday by Branch O'Neil Crowley of the local National Foresters association at a meeting of the committee held last night at A.O.U.F. hall in Middle St. The excursion to the beach will be made by auto trucks, with each in charge of one of the officers of the society. The party will leave the A.O.U.F. hall in Middle street Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock and the return trip will be made at 7 p. m. Arrangements have been made for an appetizing shore dinner at one of the leading hotels at the beach and in the afternoon a program of sports and musical numbers will be given. The committee in charge includes the following: Michael J. Mitchell, chairman; Edward J. Crowley, Thomas J. Nevin, Joseph L. Hendley, Hart J. Callery, Michael J. Cain, P. W. Moran, John H. Hickey, Margaret J. Mooney, Maria J. Mackham, Mary A. Dillon, Annie J. Shaugnessy, Bessie M. McHugh, Nellie E. Howard, Annie M. Mitchell, Nellie J. Burdigan and Elizabeth V. Muloney.

Storm Breaks at Meeting

Members of the council would be fit to act as pound-keepers after they had finished their present terms of office. Other important business transacted was the unanimous confirmation of Miller Bellefontaine as library trustee for a term of five years; the confirmation by an eight to seven vote, of Wilfred J. Achin as assessor and the placing on the table of the names of Edward J. Donnelly, Joseph Gormley and Sarah B. Kittredge, nominated by the mayor for the positions of purchasing agent, superintendent of charities and superintendent of state aid, respectively.

The Arnold hearing, which was the result of charges brought against William A. Arnold, superintendent of state aid, by the Trades and Labor Council in which it is stated that he is alleged to have advised men seeking state aid to look for positions in factories where strikes were in progress, was postponed for one month on motion of the defendant's counsel. The petition for the removal of the city's piggery, located on the Chelsea road hospital land, was read with a recommendation from the board of health that immediate action be taken on the matter, and referred to the public safety committee.

The Packard controversy was brought up after the regular business had been transacted. During the hearing Mayor Brown, City Solicitor Tierney, Dennis J. Murphy of the board of public service and Purchasing Agent Foye were heard by the council.

The hearing opened when Councilor McPadden asked the mayor, through the chair, what right he had to take money from the general fund to purchase a touring car for his own use. The mayor replied at great length to some of the questions. During the hearing that followed the purchase of two Packard trucks for use in the street department was brought up. At times the council chamber was in an uproar as the mayor and members of the council exchanged repartee, and President Bagley had some trouble in maintaining order.

After the council had voted down a motion made by Councilor Gallagher to the effect that the city auditor be instructed not to pay for the trucks, Chairman Murphy announced that unless the council voted an additional appropriation for the payment of them, money would have to come out of the maintenance appropriation, which would mean the laying off of a number of men in the department.

At one point Councilor McPadden made a motion that the city clerk be instructed to hire a lawyer to bring suit for the recovery of the money already paid to the Packard people, but this motion was lost in the rambling discussion that followed.

The Arnold matter was the first brought up. Atty. General J. Donahue, appearing for the defendant, requested a continuance of one month, stating that he was drawn into the case at a late hour and wanted more time to prepare it. Charles E. Anderson, president of the Trades and Labor Council, objected, but Councilor McMeniman moved that Mr. Donahue's request be granted and the motion was carried. The name of Mrs. Sarah J. Kittredge was brought up. Councilor Queenan moved immediate action be taken on it. The motion was not seconded. Councilor Adams moved the matter to lie on the table. The motion was carried by acclamation.

Auditorium Trustees Confirmed. Charles H. Holson, Major Fred A. Eaton and Thomas P. Boulger were unanimously confirmed as a board of trustees for the Memorial Auditorium. Miller Bellefontaine was unanimously elected a member of the board of library trustees to fill the place made vacant by the death of Dr. Bertrand.

The name of Wilfred J. Achin for assessor was then read to the council. Councilor McMeniman moved for immediate action. The motion carried. After the first ballot was taken the vote was so close that a second ballot was ordered. The result was the same as on the first ballot, with Mr. Achin receiving confirmation by a vote of eight to seven.

Those who voted in favor were: Councilors Adams, Appleton, Bagley, McMahon, McMeniman, Moriarty, Queenan and Sullivan with the following in the negative: Cameron, Callahan, Chabwick, Gallagher, Gormley, McPadden and Stearns.

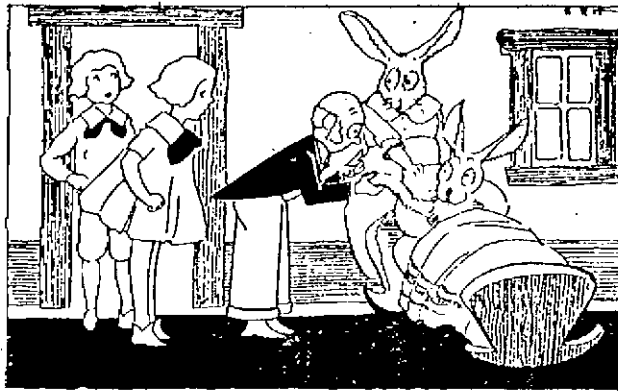

Nominations Tabled. The name of Joseph H. Gormley was sent in by the mayor, to take the place of Martin Conroy as superintendent of charities. Councilor Moriarty moved that the name be laid on the table. A show of hands was called for and ten were in favor of the motion.

Edward J. Donnelly was nominated by the mayor to take the place of Edward H. Foye as purchasing agent. Councilor Bagley moved for immediate action. The motion was not seconded, however, and the nomination was tabled.

A public location hearing was brought up but before it had been long under way President Bagley said that he was of the opinion that the hearing should be held before the board of public service. Councilor Gallagher objected to this. Councilor Adams then arose and said that it was not time that the council know its rights. He called upon the city solicitor for an opinion. The opinion was given that the council was compelled by law to give a hearing, but that it would expedite matters if the board of public service first held the hearings and made a report to the council. The chair contended the board had the right to hold hearings. Councilor Gallagher objected. The chair called Continued to Page Twelve

Use War Time Aerial Listeners as Radio Loud Speakers in English Army

English authorities have found good use for an instrument of defense which had been discarded as useless after the war.

It is the aerial listener. This consisted of a number of large horns which were directed eastward to catch the whining sound of hostile airplanes approaching the coast.

The listeners prevented many an air raid on the English coast cities, because they caught the sound of the enemy engines long before the human ear could.

Now these aerial listeners are being used as radio loud speakers. The set shown in the photograph was recently used at a military exhibition at Farnborough, Eng.

UNDERGROUND WIRE AS RADIO ANTENNA

By PAUL E. GODLEY
America's Foremost Radio Authority

Radio reception on an underground antenna works successfully.

Experiments in this type of aerial were instituted during the war in an effort to reduce static interference.

At one time, the secret service discovered a German plan to cut all radio communications between the United States and Europe.

Trans-Atlantic radio became important.

Several of the cables were cut. The heavy traffic which radio was then called upon to carry was subjected to great delay because of atmospheric disturbances. Every competent agency in this country made efforts at this time to solve the static riddle.

It was found that a long wire directed toward the station from which

It was desired to receive would pick up great signal energies with considerably better signal to static ratio than the ordinary type of tuned antenna. This wire could not only be laid directly upon the ground, provided that it was insulated, but it could even be buried in the ground at a depth of several inches without reducing the strength of the signals.

These experiments were carried further and wire placed under both fresh and salt water. Here attempts were made to receive signals from high-powered European stations with the wire laid at different depths in the water.

The best results were obtained in fresh or only slightly brackish water. When the submergence was too great in the salt water, the signals fell off to a very considerable degree.

Even for the reception of radio-phones transmitting an antenna of this type may be used. The wire should be thoroughly insulated, and may be buried a few inches or allowed to lie on the soil. The length of the wire should be six to eight hundred feet.

But better results will be had if this wire is in suspended eight or ten feet above the earth. It is to be borne in mind that best reception will come from those directions in which the plane of the wire lies.

CLEVER COUP BY FREE STATERS

Troops Landed From Sea Near Fennet, Taking Irregulars by Surprise

Retreating Irregulars Nearly "Bottled Up"—Funeral of Boland Today

DUBLIN, Aug. 4.—National army troops landed from the sea yesterday in the vicinity of Fennet, County Kerry, taking the irregulars by surprise. An attempt to frustrate the disembarkation failed. By this coup on the part of the Free Staters, the irregulars' left flank was taken in the rear. This sensational coup was carried out by a large body of Free Staters who are now a very short distance from Tralee, endangering the whole of the irregulars' left flank. The irregulars are retreating from Limerick and now find themselves with national troops in their rear as well as in front.

The coup was exceptionally well planned as the irregulars did not expect a landing to be made in the vicinity of Cork. A large part of County Kerry will be occupied by the irregulars immediately.

The operations of the nationals in South Limerick is proceeding favorably. They are driving the irregulars toward Clonmel. The rapidly changing position after position is evacuated by the irregulars, shows a disinclination on their part to make a determined stand, although the country is admirably suited to defensive tactics.

The Valera favors battle. Reports received here state that De Valera favors a decisive battle. The rank and file, however, have fallen in spirit, believing that the only result from such a battle would be rout. It is confirmed that the nationals captured Cahill yesterday morning. Official and other reports state a number of engagements and attempts on the part of the irregulars to regain the lost positions, one of which was at Patrickswell, near Limerick.

On Tuesday, when a number of nationals were taken prisoner by a superior body of irregulars, the majority of the prisoners later escaped with their arms. Four of the irregulars were killed and many other casualties resulted.

Another attempt was made to recapture Burren Wednesday morning but the nationals put up a strong fight. With one of their number captured, they finally beat off the irregulars, a number of whom were reported killed.

Free Staters, who have been successfully clearing irregulars out of County Mayo, and who captured Seafort, were a number early yesterday morning between Ballina and Swinford. Commandant Sealy was reported killed by an explosive bullet, which blew off half his face.

The Free Staters then opened fire with machine guns. The irregulars hid in a ditch and among the buildings along the adjoining road. Five prisoners were taken and the remainder escaped. Early yesterday morning, St. Muredach's college at Ballina, occupied by 50 Free Staters, was attacked by a number of irregulars, who sought to take advantage of a dense fog. They were beaten off by machine guns.

Funeral of Boland. The funeral of Harry J. Boland, who was fatally wounded while attempting to evade arrest by national army troops, will be held today. A constant stream of visitors viewed the body yesterday at St. Vincent's hospital, the republican women's organization forming a guard of honor.

The inquest into the death was held yesterday. It was purely formal in nature, the jury returning a verdict in accordance with the medical evidence.

Before he died a number of messages of sympathy from American friends were received by Mr. Boland from New York and Washington.

SCHICK TEST APPLIED IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—The Schick diphtheria test, guaranteed to make a person immune from the germ of that disease, was applied free of charge yesterday morning in Boston Street Health unit, where hundreds of West End mothers brought their children, ranging from a year and a half to eight years.

The youngsters faced the ordeal cheerfully, and, as a result of the Schick test, which Drs. John Ceece, L. P. Verde and William B. Keeler directed their thoughts in applying the test, boys were few and far between. The children were first banded to one doctor who "stuck" them in the right forearm, and then to another who repeated the process, on the left. They will return in a week for final application of the test. Similar applications will be made in the health unit every Thursday morning.

A recently invented attachment for passenger or freight elevators switches on a red light or rings a bell as a danger signal when they are overloaded.

Irregulars Abandon Plan to Make Stand

DUBLIN, Aug. 4.—(By the Associated Press)—The irregulars have apparently abandoned whatever intentions they had of making a stand on the banks of the River Suir. National troops entered Carrick-On-Suir yesterday, the 300 irregulars who had occupied the town fleeing across the hills toward Dungarvan. Before the evacuation they destroyed all the Suir bridges. As the government troops had previously taken Cahir, west of Clonmel, they now dominate the way east through the Suir cannot hold out long. The Nationals have already captured Butlerstown valley toward Waterford, and Clonmel which is menaced from two sides, Castle, near Waterford. Mullinahone, County Tipperary; Windgap, in Kilkenny, and other small towns also have been taken by the government forces.

Schooner Maud Close to Wrangell Island

NOME, Alaska, Aug. 4.—The schooner Maud, carrying the Amundsen polar expedition, reported her position at midnight Aug. 3 as close to Wrangell island and in ice, with fine weather prevailing and little snow. There had been several bad storms. The Maud's operator stated that Captain Amundsen, Lieut. Omdal and Photographer Lund had gone to Point Barrow. Captain Amundsen intends to attempt his flight to the pole this year if weather conditions permit and if not, then next year, the operator said.

Two N. H. Writers Seek Political Office

CONCORD, N. H., Aug. 4.—Two New Hampshire writers, George E. Fairbanks of Cornish and George J. Foster of Dover, apparently following in the footsteps of the group of New York "Neo-Modernists" who recently announced that they would attempt to put a non-political business man in the governor's chair, have filed papers as candidates for state senatorial nominations in the eighth and 21st district republican primaries. Mr. Fairbanks is a poet. Mr. Foster is editor of Foster's Daily Democrat of Dover.

K. OF C. CONVENTION

Supreme Knight Flaherty Makes Private Apology

—Session Ends

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 4.—Supreme Knight Flaherty of the Knights of Columbus, despite his repeated statements that he would not do so, informed the final session of the convention yesterday afternoon that he was in wrong, when he rushed publicly to the defense of J. C. Pelletier; that, after an impartial committee of the convention had explained its effects, he realized for the first time that it was not the proper thing to have done.

The official apology to the convention was couched in the politest words "Uncle Jim," as he is known to the order, could summon to the job. Apparently this satisfied a very large majority of the convention delegates, for the resolution to censure him was defeated probably three to one. Dr. John Grant Coyle, head of the reform groups, issued a statement to reporters late last night in which he admitted, after being informed that the administration was publicly rejoicing over the defeat of the censure resolution, that the supreme knight made the honorable apology, which satisfied the claims of the delegates. The final session of the convention lasted 10 hours and at the end even the defeated reformers seemed to be satisfied with the success of their efforts to make the head of the order apologize and the narrow margin of victory for the administration forces in the contest for supreme advocate.

Dr. Coyle's Statement

Dr. John G. Coyle of New York, state deputy and leader of the insurgents in the convention, last night issued the following statement:

"The supreme convention of the Knights of Columbus which ended at Atlantic City today, closed in a truly fraternal manner. Many of the Knights of Columbus had taken just offense at the impropriety of the public statement issued by Supreme Knight Flaherty in connection with the case of Joseph C. Pelletier, formerly supreme advocate of the order, who was removed as district attorney of Suffolk county, Massachusetts.

"Many of Mr. Flaherty's warmest and most affectionate friends deplored his utterances in his official capacity of supreme knight, because although strictly considered, he had not said a word about the supreme court of Massachusetts in this statement, his manner of expression was such that the average reader instantly formed the conclusion that Mr. Flaherty was condemning the supreme court for having heard the case and rendered its decision.

"Admitted His Mistake"
"The effect of his statement was to arouse a large number of the members throughout the United States to a feeling that he must take some action in retraction of this statement or admit its unwisdom or to justify this sentiment. He was thoroughly expressed and the members of the convention caused a committee to be appointed concerning the situation. Supreme Knight Flaherty admitted to the convention that he had made a mistake in issuing this statement and that he regretted having done so.

"The fact that Mr. Flaherty has been a member of the order for 26 years and that he served five years as state deputy of Pennsylvania, three years in the supreme board of directors and then four years as deputy supreme knight, without opposition, and is now serving his seventh consecutive term as supreme knight, impelled the hearts of the members of the convention to treat him in the highest spirit of fraternal charity.

There were 11 Anti-Flaherty and Anti-Pelletier resolutions introduced and these were reduced to one, which was rejected after which the session adjourned.

The matter of the next place of meeting was left in the hands of the board of directors. The consensus of opinion was that it would be held in either Montreal or Boston.

The supreme board of directors was authorized to proceed with its plan to create a great national correspondence school open to all. The plan for an outgrowth of the correspondence school opened at the Knights' headquarters in New Haven last January and operated

THREE KILLED IN GUN BATTLE FOR FUGITIVE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4.—Walter Castor, a fugitive, his sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert Castor, and Police Detective Tim Bailey were shot and killed, and Detective Ernest Gable seriously wounded in a pistol fight in Castor's home here yesterday.

A police detail went to Castor's home following a "tip" he had returned there after being sought since early in May. Castor was sought in connection with the killing of Mrs. Anna Wilkens, wife of Henry Wilkens, a garage owner.

When the police approached Castor's home, Castor opened fire and Gable fell, shot through the forehead. Bailey followed with a bullet in his heart. Another officer shot Castor dead.

A moment later policemen found Mrs. Robert Castor dead from a bullet wound. It was not known how she was hit.

SAYS WORLD'S FUTURE NONE TOO SECURE

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Sir Rider Haggard is of the opinion that western civilization is by no means so secure as many westerners believe.

"We have an idea that the west is going on forever," he said, lecturing before the Norwich Rotary club, "but can we be quite sure of that? Those who have studied and know the east; its enormous power of reproduction; its simple habits of life on the land, and its system of moralities which make every woman think it her duty to have children, know that it contains an enormous potential power which must one day break out.

"Whether it can be curbed I do not know, but I have grave doubts. I shall never forget my friend, Theodore Roosevelt, saying when talking of Japan, 'Look out for your Australia! It will be the first place to go.'"

"If once Japan secures the control of China the outlook for the western world will be very cloudy."

The speaker said he thought our existing civilizations in the end probably would go the way of other civilizations that had preceded it.

"Who would have thought a dozen years ago," he asked, "that there would be such horrors in the world as we have recently seen in Russia. Even in Ireland it has been revealed that the savage is uncommonly near the skirts of civilized man, and so always it will be."

ENGLAND MAY HELP CHINESE STUDENTS

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The Washington Government for 14 years has been expending its share of the Boxer indemnities from China for the benefit and support of Chinese students in the United States. Japan has now come forward with a similar proposal, and Great Britain may follow suit.

A governmental committee, of which Sir John Jordan, former British minister at Peking, is chairman, is considering the idea of Great Britain foregoing her indemnity installment, due this year, provided China expends it for educational purposes at home. The government is thought to be favorably inclined. Japan also has said she was prepared to forego her share of the Chinese money under the same stipulation.

There is no question of foregoing the right to the Boxer indemnity, either by Japan or Great Britain, and if the present proposals materialize the two governments would see that the money is actually used by the Chinese authorities for the stipulated educational purposes.

The Boxer indemnities were exacted in 1901 by the powers for the attacks in China in 1899 and 1900 upon foreigners and native Christians. A total of 11 countries, including Great Britain, the United States, France, Italy, Russia and Japan, received yearly allotments. The expiration date of the indemnities is 1948.

HIGH COST OF NAVIES

RICA, Aug. 4.—Shorn of naval power by the Washington conference, France recently ordered Latvia the destroyer Hissard as a present. She is over 200 feet long and makes 30 knots an hour.

Latvian government made inquiries, however, as to the cost of operating a vessel of this type, and as a result of the information obtained it may be compelled to decline the gift.

"My doctor told me about it and if I couldn't get another jar I wouldn't give this one up for anything."

That is how many people regard Resinol Ointment. It is especially recommended for eczema and other itching skin troubles, but it is also excellent as a general household remedy for burns, scalds, chafings, cold sores, pimples, boils, insect bites, etc.

Resinol Soap and Resinol Shaving Stick contain the Resinol properties and anyone should use without these products.

20,000 GIRL ATHLETES ENROLLED IN FRANCE

PARIS, Aug. 4.—France, where before the war feminine athletics were virtually unknown, now has 20,000 enrolled girls and women competing in track and field events, and from this new army a team will be selected to represent the nation in the international games in Pershing stadium beginning August 20.

The international games may result in amalgamation of the two national feminine athletic organizations whose rivalry nearly disrupted plans for the meet, one with 327 local societies and the other with 120. The Ministry of War is projecting plans for the combination.

Until May, 1918, French women had never organized for athletics with the exception of horseback riding, tennis, hiking and swimming. French women do not excel as sprinters but they are confident of their prowess in the middle-distance runs, and they have an exceptional performer in Madame Gourand-Morris in the weights.

AD CLUB OUTING SET FOR SEPTEMBER 14

The outing committee of the Lowell Ad club, of which Robert B. Wood is chairman, held an enthusiastic meeting last night in the Marion Studio and formulated plans for the coming outing of the club. Practically the entire committee was present to offer valuable suggestions, as a result of which several novel and entertaining numbers will be introduced at the outing.

It was decided that the affair be held at the Martin Luther grounds, Tyngboro, on the afternoon of Thursday, September 14. A parade with original features will precede the trip to the grounds. Automobiles will assemble at Cardinal O'Connell parkway at 11 o'clock and the start will be made at 11:30. A clam bake will be the feature attraction at the grounds.

After several incidental details had been decided upon, the following chairmen of committees were appointed: by Chairman Wood: Clam bake, Edward J. Gallagher; prizes, Frank McPherson; automobiles, Edward J. Cooney; publicity, Benjamin S. Pouzner; baseball game, Hon. James B. Cussey; sports and stunts, Henry Mulenby; identification cards and tickets, George H. Wood; guests, R. S. Pouzner; favors, Charles J. Koyen; program, Lewis Balle; schedule, Tom Atkinson; and tickets, Frank Ricard.

SEEK TO REVIVE GERMAN TRADE

HAMBURG, Aug. 4.—Preparations for Hamburg's "Overseas Week," Aug. 17 to 27, are rapidly going forward under a board of management comprising men whose activities are known throughout the world. The board includes such well known persons as Wilhelm Cuno, managing director of the Hamburg-Amerika line, former Foreign Minister Walther Simons, and Max Warburg, international financier.

"Overseas Week" will constitute an international economic congress devoted to a study of the reconstruction of Europe. Commercial representatives are expected from many parts of the world, as well as leaders in finance, shipping and transportation, industrial and technical trades, applied arts, medical science and hygiene, science and art. Opportunity will be given to inspect displays of goods and to attend discussions of vital questions. Particular attention will be given to the means of re-establishing business connections destroyed by the war, and to steps for removing obstructions to international commerce.

An organization with these purposes in view was founded here recently by prominent economic leaders of the city under the name of the "Overseas club." Speakers at the organization meeting emphasized the necessity of more freedom in international trade; called attention to the alleged hindrances imposed by the treaty of Versailles; and urged the importance of a large international loan for Germany.

KENTUCKY PRIMARIES

Ten Congressmen Seeking
Re-election Will Go Before
Voters Tomorrow

FRANKFORT, Ky., Aug. 4. (By the Associated Press.)—Ten Kentucky congressmen, eight of them democrats and two republicans, will go before the voters in tomorrow's primaries asking for reelection. Charles F. Ogden, of Anchorage, republican, will not ask for his seat again from the voters of the fifth district and Maurice H. Thatcher of Louisville, has no opposition at the primaries. This district normally is republican.

Political observers believe the political complexion of Kentucky's delegation in the next congress will be about the same as it has been for two years. R. T. Thomas, democrat, in the third district is unopposed tomorrow, but probably will have a stiff fight in November. Three republicans are seeking the nomination in this district and in the past it has been a political battle ground as the voters are about evenly divided as to political affiliation.

Political battles are not on the stage this year as many of the candidates have no opposition in the primaries and there are no republican candidates in the sixth and seventh districts.

The eight democratic incumbents have opposition for reelection in only the seventh and ninth districts, while John M. Robinson, the republican incumbent from the eleventh district is unopposed for reelection.

John W. Langley, of Pikeville, the republican incumbent from the tenth district, has one opponent, Fess Whitaker, widely known as the "Jailed Jailer" of Letcher county, who, while serving as jailer of Letcher county, served a sentence in his own jail after conviction on charges of turning out prisoners charged with a felony and of bootlegging and assault.

While still in jail Mr. Whitaker announced as a candidate to fill out the unexpired term of Sam Collins, county judge, who resigned to become state prohibition director, elected and while serving in that office he announced for congress.

Following is the list of candidates for nomination in tomorrow's primary:

First district—Allen W. Barkley, Paducah, democrat (incumbent); unopposed; F. M. McCain, Mayfield, republican, unopposed.

Second district—David H. Kincheloe, Madisonville, democrat (incumbent); unopposed; George W. Jolly, Owensboro, republican, unopposed.

Third district—R. T. Thomas, Jr., Central City, democrat (incumbent); unopposed; R. M. Amos, Olive, republican; unopposed; R. M. Amos, Olive, republican; unopposed.

Fourth district—Ben Johnson, Barrettsville, democrat (incumbent); unopposed; R. H. McMullin, Letchfield, republican, unopposed.

Fifth district—Kendrick R. Lewis, Vandalia, democrat (incumbent); unopposed; Maurice H. Thatcher, Louisville, republican, unopposed.

Sixth district—Arthur R. Reuse, Covington, democrat (incumbent); unopposed; No republican candidates.

Seventh district—R. E. Lee Murphy, Lexington and J. Campbell Cantrell, Georgetown, democrats; unopposed; No republican candidates.

Eighth district—Ralph Gilbert, Shelbyville, democrat (incumbent); unopposed; D. H. Kincaid, Danville and Ed. Hubbard, Lancaster, republicans.

Ninth district—W. J. Fields, Olive Hill (incumbent); unopposed; J. C. Greenup, T. G. Buckley, Prater, and J. C. Duffy, Cynthia, democrats; J. H. Erickson, Insko; Trumbo Snedeger, Wyomissing and George Osborn, Russell, republicans.

Tenth district—K. L. Varney, Canada, and E. Tom Thatcher, Pikeville, democrats; John W. Langley (incumbent) Pikeville and Fess Whitaker, Blueky, republicans.

Eleventh district—Clarence J. Sipple, London, democrat; unopposed; Sam M. Robinson, Barbourville, republican (incumbent).

NEW MOTOR LIFEBOAT

LONDON, Aug. 4.—A new motor lifeboat, said to be the largest and most powerful craft of the kind afloat, has been launched for the Royal National Lifeboat Institution. It is called the Barnett Twin Screw.

Practically unsinkable, the Barnett Twin Screw has as many water-tight compartments as a modern battle cruiser. Her radius of action is anything up to 100 miles. She carries a life-saving net, a line-throwing gun, and a searchlight. Her engines are two of the new six-cylinder 75 horsepower motors and it is so they will continue working even when completely submerged.

It will pay you to get the Sun classified ad. habit.

"Use for home health"
—said our Doctor

"Dr. Green is so interested in all his patients. When Dorothy had scarlet fever, he told us how important it was to keep the bedclothes and utensils used in her room thoroughly disinfected. We washed everything in Sylpho-Nathol.

"And now, that Dot's well again," said Dr. Green as he was leaving after his last visit, "keep on using Sylpho-Nathol around the house. It's an effective sanitary measure that safeguards the family against disease."

"Doctors realize more than most people that merely keeping a house free from dust and dirt doesn't keep it free from germs. All the scrubbing and scouring in the world won't get rid of the germs that lodge and breed in floor cracks, in crevices and crannies around plumbing in garbage cans and sink drains, in dark attic corners, in cellars and around laundry tubs—and goodness knows how many other places."

Sylpho-Nathol is pleasant to use. Its clean, friendly smell doesn't linger. Sylpho-Nathol is safe. Though 4½ times stronger than carbolic acid, it is as safe to have in the house as a cake of soap. It cannot hurt the skin nor injure household things. There is nothing messy or complicated about it. A teaspoonful in a quart of warm water makes a clean-smelling, pearly-gray antiseptic solution that's ready for immediate action.

Sylpho-Nathol should be used regularly in mop water; in the scouring water for garbage cans, and as a sprinkle that keeps flies as well as odors away from such places. It should be poured down sink drains and sprinkled in the cellar. Of course, it should be used regularly around the bathroom fixtures and as a flush for the toilet bowl.

Your grocer, or druggist, sells Sylpho-Nathol in four handy sizes, 16c, 35c, 65c, and $1.25. If he hasn't it, he can get it easily. Just ask for it by the name—"Sylpho-Nathol."

KEEP AWAY FROM BEES
IF YOU USE PERFUMES

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Ever since a bee census was ordered in Goshen, N. Y., the metropolis of the buzzing honey makers, tender hearted persons have been shuddering at the thought of the danger assessors might undergo in plucking each bee from its workroom or den and counting it. But they might as well stop worrying, for W. E. Thorndyke, who knows bees from stem to stinger, said today that all the census takers have to do is count the hives.

"Even if they did have to number each bee, it wouldn't be so bad," he said. "Some men could count them one by one and never have to use a mask. Of course, a lot would depend on whether the bees were aristocratic bluebloods, or hybrids. The hybrids are usually the fiercer ones. Still, when it comes to getting intimate with bees, discretion is still the better part of valor."

Girls with perfume and men who use hair oil, smelly pomades or scented talcum better get out of the way whenever they see a bee coming. Mr. Thorndyke says. He has a theory that the little honey-makers just naturally dislike certain odors. When a bee likes an odor it noses right in to gather raw material for its manufacturing plant, but it turns its back on disagreeable smells. And what a bee experiences discomfort.

Bees have domestic troubles, too, and these often put them in a bad humor. It is to ascertain how many of the baby bees at Goshen are suffering from "foul brood" and causing worry to their queen and their papa bees that the census was ordered.

Foul brood is something like summer complaint among human infants, but more devastating. It comes from impure food given during the period of incubation.

The adult bees are not bothered by the disease, as they thrive whether the larva contains good food or bad. But when the queen bee gets sick, then the physical strain of weakness ultimately affects the whole hive.

FOREGO ELKS' TEETH,
DEPARTMENT PLEA

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4. (By the Associated Press.)—Don't buy elk teeth for watch chains, stick pins or other ornaments, is the plea of the department of agriculture, for the price of each pair of such teeth is the life of a member of the country's small and fast diminishing herds.

They are very pretty ornaments and for many years have been used by Indians, especially the squaws, for that purpose, but the difference is that the Indians used only the teeth from animals slaughtered for food and their hides, while the white man kills the elk, extracts the two teeth and wastes the rest.

Thousands of bull elk have been killed in the Yellowstone park region by hunters who illegally poach upon the government preserves, and, despite the vigilance of rangers and guards, shoot down the elk in all seasons, merely for the teeth. The fashion of wearing these bits of bone as watch chains, cuff links, stick pins and hat pins has been steadily growing as the once vast herds of elk dwindle and vanish and are threatened with entire extinction, according to the biological survey. The hunters receive high prices for the teeth.

A few years ago the wearing of stick pins for hat trimming threatened the annihilation of one of our most beautiful birds, but through aroused public opinion a halt was caused in time to save the birds. Unless the market for elk teeth is curbed before it is too late, it is declared, it will mean the extermination of our elk, the most magnificent of deer. A fuller understanding of the history and price paid for elk teeth will have an influence in deprecating the market and thus removing the incentive for this wanton slaughter, the department feels.

NOBLEMAN FEELS
PINCH OF TIMES

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The Duke of Northumberland is hard up, as are many other members of the old nobility in these days of excessive taxation, and is compelled to retrench like many untitled folk in order to make both ends meet.

He has sold many of his northern properties, including several large hotels. To a wealthy Paris art dealer he recently rented his magnificent mansion on the Thames, near Kew. It is one of the biggest residences in the country.

And still the duke feels the necessity of cutting down expenses. He has decided to close Alnwick Castle, which has been the Northumberland home of the Percys since early in the 14th century. He will retain only a few rooms in the castle for use when he and the duchess are in the north. The rest of the place will be shut up. The shooting on the estate is to be let.

Her case was set for hearing tomorrow.

He declined to discuss the latest Boston-New York deal.

WILL ATTEMPT TO BRING BAND HERE

Adjutant Mark J. Arnold of the Salvation Army recently received word from Colonel W. A. McIntyre of provincial headquarters, Boston, relative to the booking of the famous Headquarters band for a concert in this city on Friday, Aug. 18. At present, the band is preparing to visit Old Orchard beach, Maine, where it will fill an important summer engagement. This musical outfit boasts of several star instrumentalists, including Lieutenant Matheson of the New York Training college, whose fame as a cornet soloist is nationally known. The adjutant will confer immediately with Mayor Brown in order to secure, if possible, City Hall park as the scene of the concert. To defray expenses, it will be necessary to sell tickets, the price of which will be 50 cents each.

Landis Probes Appointment of Demaree

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 4.—The recent appointment of Al Demaree as manager of the Portland baseball club of the Pacific Coast league is being investigated by Commissioner Landis. He has required Demaree to give him the names of every independent club with which he had played. It was said the object of that request was to enable the commissioner to check on the different teams to see whether any ineligible players might have been in the lineup.

Thousands Fight Fierce Forest Fires

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 4.—From the Rocky Mountains in Montana to the Columbia river in Washington, and up to 100 miles from the Canadian border, thousands of men are fighting fierce forest fires. The particularly hot weather of the past two months has made the forest condition extremely dry. Many acres of fine timber have been burned over or are on fire. Glacier National park, the Blackfoot Forest and the Kaniksu forest are affected.

Speed Plans in Pulitzer Trophy Race

DETROIT, Aug. 4.—The greatest speed yet recorded by aircraft is likely to be developed in the National Airplane races to be held here in October in the opinion of Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, assistant chief of the army air service. This belief, General Mitchell said, was based on the fact that several new type of planes powered by an entirely new airplane motor, would be entered in the Pulitzer trophy race, one of the chief events of the meet. General Mitchell said the new engine will develop 600 horse power capable of maintaining a speed of more than 200 miles an hour.

Pass Bar Examinations

for the time being, at least, will not practice.

Miss Mary V. Moloney is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Moloney of 177 Summer street. She graduated from the Lowell high school with honorable mention. She served as a clerk in the attendance office of the school department at city hall and later she accepted a position of assistant employment agent at the U. S. Cartridge company. Also she was employed in the local U. S. employment office. Some time ago she accepted a position of clerk in the office of the E. A. Shaw company, cotton brokers, in Boston and after efficient service was promoted to confidential secretary of the company, handling all the company's foreign business.

Miss Moloney attended the Portia law school in Boston and graduated last June. Miss Moloney has not yet decided what course she will follow, for just now she is planning a voyage to Europe with her mother. It is believed, however, that she will practice law with her brother, Benjamin J. Moloney, whose offices are in the Hildreth building.

James H. Riley, son of Mrs. Mary P. Riley of 39 Methuen street, and chairman of the Lowell school committee, was notified yesterday that he had successfully passed the examination for the Massachusetts bar. Mr. Riley completed his course of studies at the Boston University law school last June, when he was graduated with the degree of LL.B. with Cum Laude distinction.

Mr. Riley is a graduate of the Varum school in Centralville, where he has lived all his life, and for two years studied at Lowell high school in preparation for his college career. He then transferred to Canisius high school at Buffalo, N. Y., where he received his high school diploma. On his graduation he entered Canisius college. In the fall of the ensuing year he entered Boston college and was graduated from there in 1919 with an A.B. degree. Mr. Riley then decided to take up the study of law and enrolled at Boston University law school.

The news that Mr. Riley has successfully passed the bar examinations will be gratifying to his many friends throughout the city. He expects to open a law office in this city in the near future and will practice here.

Three other Lowell young men who were notified that they had successfully passed the examinations for the Massachusetts bar yesterday are, Edward Le Cam of 30 Haines avenue, Paul J. Angelo of 51 Pond street, and Joseph J. Coups of 16 West Bowers street. These young men intend to practice in Lowell with the exception of Mr. Coups, who will open an office in Lawrence.

Mr. Le Cam is a graduate of the Moody grammar school and Lowell high school. On his graduation from high school he entered Boston college and was graduated with the class of 1919, with high distinction. The next fall he entered Harvard law school and was graduated from there last June with an LL.B. degree.

Mr. Angelo, on his graduation from the Moody grammar school, entered Lowell high school and was graduated in 1918. Mr. Angelo was president of his class. He then entered Boston University law school and was graduated last June with an LL.B. degree. At the last city election he opposed Councilor Daniel F. Moriarty of Ward 5 and gave him a close run. Mr. Angelo is also very popular in musical circles throughout the city and is a member of several local societies.

Mr. Coups was graduated from the St. Angela school of New York city. He then attended the Regis high school of that city but later removed to Lowell and entered high school here. He was graduated from the high school in 1919 and entered Boston University law school. He was graduated from there last June with the degree of LL.B. Mr. Coups is a member of the Phi Delta fraternity. He intends to open a law office in Lawrence.

GIRL BEGS JUDGE NOT TO GIVE HER TO MOTHER

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 4.—Beatrice Gagnon, 10, of Woonsocket, interrupted a hearing regarding her custody in superior court yesterday and ran, with tears streaming down her cheeks, to the bench in Judge Blodgett's room, where the case was being heard, and pleaded with the justice to be permitted to continue to live with her grandmother, with whom she has made her home for six years, attending school part of the time in Precious Blood convent in Woonsocket. Beatrice's father is Alfred Gagnon and her mother is Clotilde M. Gagnon. They separated in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and Mrs. Gagnon went to her people in New Bedford.

Gagnon's former employment required considerable travel, but since his wife obtained a divorce in Massachusetts he went to live with his mother, where Beatrice was staying.

Mrs. Gagnon's divorce gave her the custody of Beatrice when it became effective in June, but the grandmother and Gagnon opposed letting her go with her mother.

Mrs. Gagnon asked Judge Blodgett for custody of her child, in accordance with the decree, and the question was argued.

BIG BLACK BEAR VISITS COTTAGERS

FRANKLIN, N. H., Aug. 4.—Residents at Webster lake were awakened early yesterday morning by a big black bear. He was seen near the summer cottage occupied by the Lath and Perry families from Manchester. He knocked over their garbage can and ransacked its contents. They saw him sitting on his haunches in the moonlight and say he was a whopper. It is expected that firing cannon on Mt. Kennebec, where the New Hampshire troops are encamped this week, has driven the bear from that section, and that this one wandered to Webster lake. The summer colony is again with excitement.

Glorious Gloria Forgets Style and Really Acts in "Her Gilded Cage"

GLORIA SWANSON AND DAVID POWELL, HER LEADING MAN IN "HER GILDED CAGE"

BY JAMES W. DEAN
NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Gloria Swanson returns from the status of style mannequin to that of actress in "Her Gilded Cage."

Those who became devoted to her through her work in "Something to Think About" and such films will like her in this one.

And those dear young things who go to the theatre just to see what Gloria is wearing in the way of fancy clothes will not be entirely disappointed.

In the earlier sequences of the film Gloria appears as a home girl and later as a cabaret entertainer. Her dress is very simple. It may be attention is thus focused on Gloria's own beauty and personality—the native talents that enabled her to become a star.

Clothes may make the woman, but they don't make the actress, even though that is the gist of the story told in the film.

Elsie Ferguson once starred in a stage drama called "Footlights." In that story an actress was lifted from obscurity to fame by the mighty pen of a press agent.

Lizzie Parsons acquired a taste for Russian tea, cigarettes and dialect and became Parsonova, the great Russian actress. She was turkey for the press agent, as the boys say.

When the public had time to forget the story of that play, a musical comedy called "Love Dreams" blossomed on the boards of Broadway. It had little music and slight story. It soon withered, but it was not left to die. Its sponsors said: "Never mind, little play, you'll be a movie by and by."

And that musical comedy is known on the screen as "Her Gilded Cage." The screen has improved it immeasurably, being unable, perforce, to transfer the music with the story.

If there is still one small voice to protest that the movie cannot equal the stage, let it be entirely hushed by the sight of this play as executed in both mediums.

In "Her Gilded Cage" Gloria has a sister who is suffering with hysterical paralysis. She could walk if she would really try but she would rather be a wretched invalid.

Gloria, poor thing, takes a job as a cabaret dancer (this was in Paris, you know). Fat Walter Hiers happens along and calls her "Fleur D'Amour," favorite of King Fernando. The cabaret owner after that hangs out the S.R.O. sign.

Then Fatty Hiers sees what a hit

DENY LAST WISHES FOR DISPOSING OF BODY

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 4.—The late Dr. Jokichi Takamine, famous Japanese chemist, suggested in his will two means of disposing of his body, but neither will be carried out.

First he desired his body be offered to Dr. Malcolm Harris of Chicago "for research and examination, particularly with regard to my liver, which was operated on 30 years ago." Should Dr. Harris not want the body, the chemist requested that it be cremated, and some of the ashes buried here and the rest in Japan.

Dr. Harris had declined to accept the body, it was learned yesterday from Jokichi Takamine, Jr., and it will not be cremated because six weeks before his recent death, Dr. Takamine was baptized into the Catholic church, which is opposed to cremation. The will was drawn a year ago.

The younger Takamine said his father's remains have been buried in Woodlawn cemetery. One-third of the estate, comprising properties here and in Japan, estimated far in excess of $1,000,000, is to go to the widow. Most of the remaining two-thirds is divided between the two sons, with bequests to friends and institutions.

she would be on Broadway, especially with his ideas of press-agenting. It's against Gloria's principles and all that sort of thing, you understand, but there's the hysterical-paralytic sister to look after and she'll get a thousand dollars a week to pay doctors to cure her sister.

The artist who loves her believes all the press-agent stories about her and then his younger brother becomes entangled in the affairs of Gloria and there's his job generally to pay until everybody learns the truth.

Then Gloria makes up with her lover and his brother makes up with her sister who regained the power to walk just before the fade-out.

The moral is: Don't believe everything you see in the papers.

Harrison Ford has played the principal male role in many films and has won a host of admirers among the girls.

The importance of subtleties is aptly illustrated in "The Way of a Teacher," a post nature picture of extraordinary beauty. The effect of the film's beauty is greatly marred by the stiltedness of the subtitles, which are conversational.

A teacher in telling a young pupil of her trip says she was delighted by the scenery that "enviromed" her.

Again, she said, "On a peaceful lake I soon learned the art of canoeing." And, "The beauty of the late summer afternoon appealed to my jaded mind."

Anybody who lets scenery environ him and goes at canoeing as an art rather than a glorious sport is likely to return from a vacation with a mind still a bit jaded.

M'CALL DENIES HE SAID HE'D STUMP FOR LODGE

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—Ex-Gov. Samuel W. McCall has not said he will take the stump for United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, although he has prepared to speak for the republican ticket in the coming campaign. This much he made clear in an interview over the telephone last evening from his summer place at Lancaster, N. H.

The ex-governor's attention was called to a possible statement in a Boston paper, which declared unqualifiedly that Mr. McCall would be one of the speakers in behalf of Senator's Lodge's re-election.

Mr. McCall stated last evening that he had been asked if he was to take the stump for Senator Lodge and had replied that he had nothing to do with selecting the speakers for the republican party. Furthermore, he said last evening, he had pointed out that as he had no authority to announce himself as one of the party's orators this fall, he could not with propriety make any assertion as to his plans.

Continuing, he said that as a republican he had reason to expect to be called upon and was ready to take part in the campaign and assist in the election of the republican ticket. Under such circumstances, he added, he would "do what he could."

PASTRY POISONER DEFEATED OWN AIMS

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Health department chemists announced yesterday that pie crust and pastry taken from the Shelburne restaurant, where six persons were fatally poisoned Monday, contained arsenic in such quantities that it literally clogged test tubes used in an analysis of the baked stuff. Many of those who were poisoned, the chemists said, were saved because the large quantity of arsenic acted as its own emetic.

There were no new deaths added to the list of yesterday, but two more girls and a man were reported violently ill.

Dist. Atty. Banton continued his investigation, questioning employees of the restaurant, but said he had arrived at no conclusion and was still as far away as ever from a solution of the mystery of who had placed the poison.

Peter Hanson, who was succeeded as chief baker by Charles Ahlstrom, the man first questioned by the district attorney, was quizzed by the officials today. He was in the office for some time, but refused to discuss his visit, and Mr. Banton also was silent on the questions he asked.

Sore throats, diphtheria and many similar complaints are practically unknown among those employed in the oil fields, refineries and other branches of the petroleum industry.

STAGE MODERN PLAYS IN ANCIENT ROMAN RUIN

FLORENCE, Italy, Aug. 4.—The old Roman theatre at Fiesole will this autumn, if present plans are carried out, be used again for the purpose it was originally, so well constructed many centuries ago. It will witness the production of a series of plays, but this time the plays will be filmed, it is hoped, by latter day tourists who will find interest in the novel idea. Gabriele d'Annunzio is giving his support to the project, and it is probable that one of his tragedies will be in the repertory.

This ruin of the days of Rome is beautifully located in the ancient Etruscan town that under the olive-covered hills above Florence. It has admirable acoustic properties. Nineteen tiers of stone seats still remain in a semi-circle 37 yards in diameter, while just before these are three more rows of special seats used in olden times by persons of rank who will, it is proposed, beginning next September, give performances every spring and autumn when the weather in Italy is particularly agreeable. In addition to the d'Annunzio play, the first series of productions will include three classic tragedies: a melodrama, probably Ophelia by Monteverde, and a drama from the pen of a modern Italian writer.

vent the car to which it is attached from travelling over ten miles an hour. The more the driver "steers on it," the slower the car will run.

This automatic speed regulator is the invention of Ernesto Frangano and Ottore Villa. An indicator is set at the number of miles an hour desired and the maximum speed. An application of centrifugal force interrupts the working of the motor if the driver attempts to go beyond the limit.

In Rome the narrow streets in the older quarters of the city, the numerous hills, and the inequalities in the pavements of many streets make fast driving particularly dangerous. Drivers are prone to disregard existing speed regulations, so the city authorities are giving thought to making obligatory the use of this automatic speed regulator.

UNIQUE ACCIDENTS IN WHITE MOUNTAINS

BRETTON WOODS, N. H., Aug. 4.—Two White Mountain visitors, met with unique accidents yesterday. Miss Margaret Johnson of New York broke a tendon in her leg while running in a luncheon game between the men and women guests of the Eagle Mountain house at Jackson. Miss M. Brock of New York, a guest at the Mt. Pleasant house at Bretton Woods, shut herself so carefully into the telephone booth that she was imprisoned there for nearly two hours before a carpenter could be located to remove the door and extricate her, nearly fainting for want of air.

WOULD ACCEPT FORD'S OFFER

Minority of Senate Agriculture Committee Submits Report to Senate

Strong Protest Against Government Operation of Muscle Shoals

Declares Government Has Lost $3,000,000 There Since the Armistice

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—(By the Associated Press)—Acceptance of Henry Ford's offer for purchase and lease of the government's vast nitrate and water power projects at Muscle Shoals, Ala., was urged by republican and democratic senators comprising a minority of the senate agricultural committee in a report submitted today to the senate. Strong protest was entered by the senators against the acceptance of the government ownership and operation plan proposed by Senator Norris, of Nebraska, the committee's chairman.

The report was presented by Senator Ladd, republican, North Dakota. It estimated that the government had lost $3,000,000 at Muscle Shoals since the armistice, by failure to develop and operate the project, and declared the quickest way to stop these losses is to accept Henry Ford's offer for the purchase and lease of the government's Muscle Shoals properties.

"Certain objections to the Ford offer seem apparent," the report said, "but we insist without fear of successful contradiction that none of the objections to the Ford offer can be remedied or solved by government ownership and operation—by the government going into the power business or entering the uncharted and hazardous field of operating nitrate plants at Muscle Shoals in the production of nitroglycerine and other commercial fertilizers using electric chemical processes, the commercial success of which is yet controversial.

Would Bring Condemnation

"For congress to adopt such a policy when Henry Ford's offer makes it unnecessary for the government to do so," it continued, "would subject congress to the just condemnation and reproach of all sober-minded people."

The belief was expressed that every member of the senate would agree with the committee minority with reference to the acceptance of Mr. Ford's proposal, when they consider the "present fuel and transportation emergencies" in the light of "development of such great hydro-electric power as is found at Muscle Shoals," adding that it "is the only certain and permanent relief in the future from the present paralysis of American industry."

The report called attention to charges that acceptance of Mr. Ford's tender would give him a government subsidy in the development of power and the manufacture of fertilizer and said:

"It has been claimed that the Ford offer constitutes a subsidy to Mr. Ford. If it is a subsidy, it is not such a subsidy as is proposed by the administration in the Ship Subsidy bill."

The report then cited a comparison between the Ladd bill and that proposing federal relief for the merchant marine, showing that the former called for an expenditure of $42,000,000 while the latter required an expenditure of $125,000,000.

In that connection it was contended, one measure would take the government out of the shipping business while the other would take it out of the fertilizer and power business. It was also argued in that connection that the Ladd bill would cost the government "approximately nothing," whereas the "Ship Subsidy bill" would necessitate an annual expenditure of $41,500,000.

"If the Ford proposal is not to be supported on the grounds of subsidy," the report asked, "how can the American people support such a subsidy to ship operators as is here proposed?"

Referring to the relationship claimed between Muscle Shoals development and the fuel and transportation emergencies, the report said:

"No electrified railway and no industry served by water power can suffer suspension on account of a fuel supply, because hydro-electric power, both in its production and distribution, is practically free of all labor troubles. Fuel and transportation are the big national problems which now distress our people. Muscle Shoals, with the Ford offer accepted, may furnish an opportunity for the senate to discover how such fuel and transportation emergencies can be, at least in part, avoided in the future."

The report continued in detail the Ladd and Norris bills pending in the senate. The Ford offer as represented by the Ladd bill, the report said, "takes the government out of the fertilizer and power business," while the Nebraska member's bill "sets the government up in the fertilizer and power business."

The Norris proposal requires direct appropriation by congress of $44,000,000, without including any estimate for the proposed dams in the upper Tennessee river, "with no guaranteed return of either the principal or interest on same." It was said. On the other hand, the report argued, Muscle Shoals could be developed by Mr. Ford under the Ladd bill, by a government bond issue, if desired, "as the interest and sinking fund payments made by Mr. Ford will meet interest on such bonds and retire them at the end of lease period, except during the short construction and power loading period."

Fraught With Gravest Danger

"Even those of us who are in favor of government ownership and operation," said the report, "must concede that the Muscle Shoals case is one fraught with the gravest danger of heavy losses if the government undertakes to work out the fertilizer problem there. No advocate of government ownership and operation can discount the fact that the Muscle Shoals case is not a good one to select in testing out the policy of government ownership and operation. The dangers and the difficulties, many of them specialized and technical, involving problems in the field of commercial chemistry, warn us to be conservative and prudent with the people's money at Muscle Shoals."

An agricultural benefit to the country by development of the Shoals properties by Mr. Ford, the report asserted, will include a large scale production of fertilizer "produced under the most favorable manufacturing conditions, maintained abreast of progress in an art that is developing rapidly, and which will reduce the cost of fertilizer."

After reviewing conflicting testimony taken by the committee on the question of how much present fertilizer costs could be reduced at Muscle Shoals, the report asserted:

"To our minds the evidence is convincing that there are modern electro-chemical processes, which, applied at Muscle Shoals, will reduce the cost of fertilizers, but if there is any doubt on that score the United States should stay out of the business."

"Mr. Ford has agreed to pursue a plan of research and to adopt the results from his investigations which will compel him to introduce the best available methods, and he has the necessary capital to do so."

"We, therefore, believe that among the costly problems which the United States will have to solve at Muscle Shoals will be the selection of the most economical nitrogen fixation process, and therefore it is conceivable that Mr. Ford will be obliged to either redesign Nitrate Plant No. 2 or possibly scrap and rebuild the entire nitrogen process equipment."

"Now, since Henry Ford has the cash and has offered to spend it to meet these contingencies and dangerous financial risks as we here describe, then, speaking for ourselves, we are willing to let him have a chance to do it, but we are not willing for the United States to have the opportunity to engage in any such speculative industrial ventures."

Would Cut Fertilizer Cost

"A fair consideration of all the facts," the report declared, "leads unmistakably to the conclusion that under the Ford offer the cost of fertilizer delivered to the farmer can be materially reduced."

The report added that from the present fertilizer industry the farmer might expect but little in the reduction of prices.

"These interests even declined the opportunity to use the government's nitrate plants free of cost to them, and to be allowed without paying the government anything, and after nine per cent was earned, additional profits were to be equally divided between these interests and the government," it said. "How can these interests justly complain against the acceptance by congress of the Ford offer when he proposes to pay $5,000,000 for the same nitrate plants that these interests declined to run free of cost, purchasing or rental cost, Mr. Ford agreeing to sell fertilizer at no more than eight per cent profit."

"Mr. Ford's offer will result in a development whose national value can only be compared with the accomplishment at Niagara Falls," the report continued. "The applications of electro-chemistry and electrometallurgy have made the Niagara Falls hydro-electric developments successful, and in the same way it will take the skill of the chemist and the metallurgist, together with that of the hydroelectric engineer with ample capital to develop the full possibilities at Muscle Shoals, where, due to the fluctuating flow of the stream, the problems are greater than those encountered at Niagara Falls."

"To compel Mr. Ford to state just what the operation at Muscle Shoals will be and just what they will produce, is either to limit the possibilities of the project and cripple its future usefulness or else it is to ask Mr. Ford to do the impossible. No one could have foretold the Niagara developments thirty years ago."

"Niagara Falls was a most important source of indispensable munitions for this nation in the great war, and the economic value to the country of a second development of this kind in so favorable a location for its perfection as Muscle Shoals can not be computed in dollars and cents. When to this is added the well-known Ford policies, which mean that the economies will be passed on to the consumer, policies which can be perpetuated and made valid throughout the 100 year lease, irrespective of the life of Mr. Ford, it seems that ordinary business judgment indicates that the American people should have the benefit of the Ford offer. We feel that we must accept Mr. Ford's agreement to sell fertilizer at a profit of 8 per cent as an earnest guarantee of the general policy that he may be expected to adopt at Muscle Shoals."

Would Advance Industry

"The Muscle Shoals project developed under the Ford offer will contribute to the advancement of American industry by introducing a plan of water-power development, which provides the means whereby hydroelectric power ultimately may be had in the United States as cheaply as in the more naturally favored countries such as Canada and Norway."

"Since a hydroelectric plant costs a great deal to construct and but little to operate, there is a feature of hydroelectric power economies well known to those in the business that the general public does not appreciate. When the items which go to make up the cost of hydroelectric power at the switchboard of the generating station are examined, it is found that under the conditions of construction and financing existing in the United States, the single item of interest on the investment constitutes 10 per cent or more of the cost of the power."

"Mr. Ford proposes to eliminate the interest by amortizing and returning the investment, through the operation of a long-time sinking fund. He therefore provides a series of payments

ALL DOGS MUST BE MUZZLED OR LEASHED

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson issued a general order last evening at roll call notifying the members of the department of the recent ruling passed by the city council and signed by Mayor Curley, regarding the muzzling and restraining of dogs. Regarding this ruling the commissioner in the order stated:

"It is after a lapse of 12 hours from the time of service the dog is again found unmuzzled or not restrained from running at large, complaint shall be made against the owner or keeper in the ordinary manner."

"In order that the police may not avoid the authority conferred upon them by the statutes and the order of the city council they will note the following conditions:

"A licensed dog in a public place must be led in leash or otherwise effectively restrained or must be muzzled and the muzzle must be of such construction as to prevent the dog from biting."

"A licensed dog in a public place is not required to be leashed and muzzled at the same time."

"A licensed dog upon the premises of its owner is not required to be restrained with either leash or muzzle."

"No police officer has been authorized to kill a dog because it is running at large without a muzzle or other restraint. No person can be so authorized except by direct warrant of the mayor and city council, addressed to him individually. The police will therefore follow in this respect the department rule governing the use of revolvers."

"The treatment by the police of dogs not licensed and of dogs or other animals at large and dangerous is to be the same as heretofore."

The Walker street boys' baseball team has played every team in the league and remains undefeated, although some of their games are under protest. John Groulx, the instructor, is a college baseball player and has turned out a fine team. The Varnum school girls' baseball team, volleyball team and captain-ball team, which are coached by Miss Nellie Cross and Miss Martha Gallagher, are undefeated as yet and Monday will play the Lakeview avenue team for the championship of the Eastern league. The North common girls' baseball team, volleyball team and captain-ball team which are in charge of Miss Charlotte Green, are leading the Central league and should be returned the winners.

COUTURE WINS FIRST SUMMER TOUR OF DUTY RACE IN SERIES

Fred Couture, the local runner, defeated Luigi Ticoni of Lawrence in the first of a series of five-mile races on the common last night. Couture's time for the five miles was 27 minutes and he led Ticoni by a quarter of a lap at the finish.

The race was staged by Frank Riard, who is fostering this sport, and was witnessed by the large crowd that attended last night's ball game. There was a large crowd from Lawrence to cheer for their man and it was a very interesting gathering. The second race of the series will be run in Lawrence a week from tonight and it is expected that there will be a large gathering of Lowell rooters. If it should be necessary to run a third race the scene of this meeting will be determined by the flip of a coin.

MAN INJURED WHEN AUTO TRUCKS COME TOGETHER

As a result of a head-on collision between two automobile trucks at the junction of Merrimack and Dutton streets, one man was injured, and one of the trucks was badly damaged and one driver was arrested on charges of drunkenness and operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

The accident occurred shortly before 11 o'clock. One was a Ward truck of Boston, operated by Joseph A. II. Toulignant of 18 Ford street, and the other a moving truck owned by W. J. Gibson and operated by Silas J. Gearin of 185 Lakeview avenue. As far as can be learned the Ward truck was going up Merrimack street on the right hand side and when it reached the junction of Dutton street it was struck by the Gibson machine, which rounded the corner on the left side of the street.

Toulignant received a bad cut on the nose and other minor injuries, which were treated at the office of a nearby physician. One front wheel of the Ward truck was smashed and the radiator was badly broken. One of the front springs of the Gibson machine was broken, while the left mudguard was bent. Officer Swinwick placed Gearin under arrest. The Ward truck was later towed to a nearby garage.

Woman Fined for Assault

and warned to be careful in the future in view of the surroundings in which she is being brought up.

In the course of the trial it was shown that the officers had gone to 11 Bay State court, the number appearing on their first warrant, and were told that the Kulikowskis lived in another house. They asked permission to enter a nearby house, which permission was denied them. As the object of their search was five rifles and typewriter, they sent to the police station for a correct warrant, and on its return proceeded to serve it. The Kulikowskis, mother, daughter and son, the latter a bright little fellow of about nine or ten years of age, denied that a warrant was shown them, claiming that what they saw was a piece of newspaper, not in the least resembling the warrant shown them. The woman claimed that Inspector Walsh, after showing her the paper and refusing to allow her daughter, who is an advanced pupil in the Varnum school, to read it, grabbed her by the throat and pushed her to one side. A scuffle ensued, during which time, fearing for her mother's safety, the girl seized a broom and beat the inspector over the head, inflicting a number of bruises. The officers denied any rough work, claiming they had used no more force than necessary. They produced as a witness a woman who lives in the same house with the Kulikowskis, directly overhead. The woman's testimony was discounted because of the fact that she and the defendant are not on good terms since she threw a milk bottle at Mrs. Kulikowski some three weeks before the alleged assault.

In regard to the illegal keeping charge, it was related by both women and by the children that a man comes to the house regularly to supply liquor to the residents. This man comes in a green auto two or three times a week, and sells the stuff in half gal-

AN EXCELLENT BOARD

The people of Lowell are to be congratulated upon the excellence and high character of the board of trustees appointed by His Honor, Mayor Brown, to take charge of the Memorial Auditorium. In selecting this board, the mayor has shown sound judgment and a proper appreciation of the requirements of the board that will assume the responsibility for the magnificent structure soon to be turned over to the city by the building commission. The city council is also to be commended for its prompt action in confirming the nominations, evidently realizing the eminent fitness of the board as a whole for the very important duties of properly safeguarding the Auditorium and at the same time making it of the greatest possible service to the community.

Mr. Charles H. Johnson, who has been named for the three-year term and who will probably be chairman of the board, in addition to being one of our foremost business men, is one of the most eminent authorities on heating and ventilation in this part of the state. The Auditorium has a most expensive and elaborate system of heating and ventilation with every detail of which Mr. Johnson is familiar, so that under his control, the citizens can rest assured that it will be kept in proper condition.

Mr. Thomas P. Boulger is also a highly capable business man, one whose strict integrity carried him unscathed through the perils, appeals and temptations of the old police board. As trustee, he will show equal devotion to the city's interests and the responsibilities of the office. From his wide knowledge of musical affairs, he will be able to give the board the benefit of his experience and judgment in deciding between the claims of different organizations and seeing that the Auditorium shall never be used for any unworthy or improper purpose.

Major Frederick A. Estes is an insurance expert of wide experience and in this capacity he will be a valuable acquisition on the board. He can give expert advice in seeing that the precautions against fire are always kept up to the highest possible standard. The building commission has installed eighteen clocks for watchmen to register upon hourly on their rounds of the building every night. The commission realizes that this building is too valuable to be left at any time without the most complete protection against fire or damage of any kind. Major Estes is also closely connected with the military organizations of the city, and his judgment in such matters will assist the board in dealing fairly with all of them while at the same time seeing that the main purpose of the Auditorium as a community building shall not be forgotten.

In this board of trustees the city will have a body that can be relied upon to safeguard in every respect, the beautiful Memorial Auditorium which will give the city a new and magnificent public hall and one that, in point of architectural beauty and artistic design, will probably compare with any of its kind in the country.

PELLETIER'S VIEWS

Apparently Joseph C. Pelletier, former district attorney of Suffolk county, recently removed from office, does not seem to realize what has happened to him. Judging from a letter he recently issued to the press, he seems to think that the members of the Knights of Columbus who have repudiated him, are guilty of a breach of friendship. Where a man is unfortunate enough to fall into disgrace, he cannot expect his former friends to ignore the fact and treat him in every respect as before his downfall. Pelletier is a lawyer and should understand the effect of being ousted from office for malfeasance, followed by dishonor. In consideration of the effect of his conviction, it may be said that he is running as a candidate for reelection as district attorney. Is it not unreasonable on his part to expect any number of citizens to stuff themselves by voting for him?

In order to head off the election of any disgraced lawyer, the legislature passed a bill providing that none but a lawyer in good standing in his profession could hold the office of district attorney. Through the influence of interested parties, this act has been held up on a referendum and hence it will come before the people at the November election. Every citizen in Massachusetts should vote to sustain the measure in order that none but a reputable lawyer can be elected to the important office of district attorney. Should the act be defeated, then Nathan Taft or Joseph Pelletier could be elected, if they got enough people willing to violate their obligations of citizenship by voting for them.

We venture to predict that Mr. Pelletier will receive a further rebuke if he runs for district attorney as the people are not going to endorse an official convicted of corruption by the highest court in the land. To do so would indicate that they either approved his conduct in office or discredited the finding of the court that declared him guilty. In either case the result would be a reflection upon their honesty or their intelligence.

WHAT CO-OPERATION DOES

New England farmers often wonder why western products of the soil can be shipped to eastern markets and so promptly marketed at good profits, when local fruits and produce sometimes remain stagnant and can hardly be sold. Aaron Sapro, counsel for the co-operative farmers of California, has explained why California has practically run away with the eastern markets and why 50 per cent of the fruit growers of California made profits last year, while farmers of nearly every other section of the United States spent their time footling tragic losses.

California fruit growers made money, according to Mr. Sapro, because they have made a study of the methods of the great industrial corporations of the country and have applied their systems of marketing to farm products. The same thing can and will be done by the farmers of every part of the country, he predicted.

It has been the habit of many farmers to dump their output wherever it was grown as soon as harvested, thus creating a gigantic oversupply in small market cities and towns, and then wait for dealers and speculators to come and take it away from them on the prices likely to prevail in glutted markets.

The situation today in Massachusetts in the early apple markets, is gloomy for many farmers. Many thousands of bushels of fruit are being dumped on Boston and other markets, and some returns are as low as 25 cents a bushel, after transportation and sales accounts have been taken out. The farmers of the east ought to learn something by the success of the co-operative methods of the middle and far west. They appear to be winning their way easily by straight co-operation.

No other reason can be found at the present time, for as fine market stuffs can be and are raised right here in Massachusetts as can be found anywhere in the country. The marketing problem is the thing to be solved, apparently. Until it is solved, farmers who do not co-operate will have poor financial returns on the farm produce shipped to a distance to be disposed of by other agencies.

BELL AND HIS TELEPHONE

It would be difficult to find any other single case in which the world has made more progress than in the transmission of intelligence or the methods of communication. Before Alexander Graham Bell invented the telephone, the courier or messenger was the quickest agency for carrying news from one point to another. Now the telephone makes it possible to converse with parties perhaps thousands of miles apart. That was the triumph of Bell's invention, but he lived to see a still more wonderful method of communication discovered, one that dispenses with all wires and that carries the accents of the human voice around the world through the wildest storms and over the most tempestuous seas. As yet it is not so fully understood as to serve as a practical substitute for the Bell system, but evidently that day is at hand. Its use in saving lives at sea by enabling the ships to send out calls for help is one of the most vital thus far made of the wireless. Some will say that Bell had nothing to do with the wireless, perhaps not, but had not Bell given the world his telephone, Marconi would probably never have discovered wireless. Thus does one great invention bring developments that far exceed the original idea.

NO CANCELLATION

Despite repeated statements from British sources to the effect that England will meet all her indebtedness to the United States, there is a renewed effort to bring about cancellation of all the war loans. England would cancel her loans to the other European powers; but could not do so unless we would cancel our loans to her, which would more than cover the debts due her. But there would be no power to pay Uncle Sam the equivalent of his loans if he agreed to this cancellation scheme. The money loaned to the allies by the United States was borrowed from the people and must be paid back when the bonds fall due.

Fortunately there is no sentiment in the senate in favor of cancellation. One of the leading senators discussing the British note to the allies said: "We'll never cancel our war debts; Great Britain is morally bound to pay her debts to us regardless of what other nations owe her."

The gradual winding of the chain between England and France, not only in reference to German reparations, but on territorial policies, in which they take opposite sides as between Turkey and Greece, has made all the other powers of Europe nervous; and as a result they are already talking of the next war. If we cancelled our loans to England, and England her loans to other powers, the money that should be used in paying the loans would then be used in preparations for war.

FIGHTING AIRPLANES

Much sleep has been lost because "England's out-build" us in airplanes and soon will be mistress of the air.

The London Daily Mail is running a series of articles about "England's last air power." It tells of a sensation in the house of commons over "The alarming admission that there are only six fighting airplanes owned by the British navy today."

The Mail wants to know what its readers think of an air ministry which produces such results for an expenditure of more than $50,000,000. Now we know why they are called "our English cousins."

STARVED

Robert W. Dunn, member of the Quaker famine relief forces in Russia, writes from Kuzminkovskaya. Ninety per cent of the livestock in that district have disappeared during the famine. Only 100 horses remain out of 3000. A fourth of the people have starved to death, in some isolated villages three-fourths.

You can be sure of two things about Russia, he says. First, it will be a tremendous market for American goods when it begins recovering. Second, it will take many years to restore normal condition. Few of us will live to see it.

SEEN AND HEARD

The cost of living remains the same all you make.

The tariff announced on California nuts has nothing whatsoever to do with Hollywood.

Have you sent a check to the high school alumni drive committee yet to help build the athletic stadium?

Little boys who will not tell the truth are very liable to grow up to be golfers, fishermen or politicians.

Save a quarter for tomorrow and give it to the veterans of foreign wars toward the erection of a recreation hut at the Groton hospital.

Hundreds of business men who never showed a great deal of interest in baseball before, wouldn't think of missing a Twilight league game.

Consider the Outlook

So numerous are mosquitoes in some parts of South America that the inhabitants sleep with their bodies covered with sand three or four inches deep, the head only being left out, which they cover with a handkerchief.

A Thought

He that giveth unto the poor shall have no lack; but he that hideth his eyes shall have many a curse.—Proverbs 28:27

I am more and more convinced that the best institutions must be a poor apology for all of us doing our duty to our neighbor as he comes along.—B. B. Bawley

Good Guess

Postmaster Harry Spaulding of Manchester, N. H., is convinced that he has one clever clerk. A letter came to the postoffice from Canada addressed as follows: "Monseigneur John Rivouick, Marchand Fer, Manchester, N. H." After reading the address over several times the clerk sorting the mail marked on the envelope: "John B. Varick, Elm Street." The address proved to be correct.

She Had No Answer

A former socialist, who is now very anti, is known for his ready wit. He was haranguing an open-air meeting and referred to our boys who fought "over there." A stout suffragette asked him in an acid tone: "Will you tell us why you didn't fight with the boys over there?"

"Yes, madam," answered the ex-socialist. "For the same reason you are not with the Police—physical disability."

Reason Enough

Harcourt sat on the doorstep, crying bitterly. Passerby tried to console him, but without avail. Presently a sympathetic old lady came along.

"What's the matter, little boy?" she asked.

"Got my new pants covered with dust," sobbed the boy.

"Then why don't you clean 'em, dear," continued the lady.

"I know they are," wailed the boy. "Then why do you still cry, child?"

"Got mother's word to let me take 'em off when she beat the dust out."

Dog Chained Color

Brown lived between Gray and Green. Gray had a black dog that was the terror of Brown's life. One day, in his desperation, he told Gray that if he would get rid of the dog he would give him $5.

"All right," said Gray. "I'll do it." Meeting Gray that afternoon, Brown asked: "Have you done what that dog?"

"Yes," said Gray. "I've got rid of him." Brown—Thank goodness! Now I shall be able to sleep at night. By the way, what did you do with him?"

"I sold him to Green. He gave me $25.00 for him. Not so bad, eh?"

A Word a Day

Today's word is cosmopolitan. Though not yet recognized by the dictionary, it has been adopted by a large and growing profession and is coming more and more into use as meeting a legitimate need in a legitimate way.

Those who use it to describe their occupation pronounce it—kox-me-tah-un, with accent on the third syllable. It means—a worldly, heartily or in improving beauty, especially the beauty of the complexion.

It comes from "cosmetia," which, in turn, is from a Greek word, meaning "skilled in decorating."

It's used like this—"The American Society of Cosmeticians recently concluded its annual convention in Chicago."

Dream Castles

The day is bleak and windy. But I do not care! For I am building dream castles of opalescent air.

I am placing silver pinnales above rounded towers. And planting wild anemones. And little blue star flowers.

In the sky above the castle I'll hang a crescent moon. In the garden there's a nightingale To sing a dainty tune.

The day is bleak and windy. But I do not care! For I am building dream castles of opalescent air.

HELD WITHOUT BAIL IN WALTHAM MURDER

WALTHAM, Aug. 4.—An inquest was held yesterday on the death of Angelo Benicci, whose mangled body was found on the tracks of the Boston & Maine railroad on the evening of May 22. Joseph Rizzo, charged with murder of the man, was arraigned after the inquest.

Medical Examiner Dow and railroad hands testified at the inquest and Mrs. Angelina Albanese, aunt, and Frank Benicci, brother of the dead man, gave testimony in the murder hearing.

The court took the inquest under advisement and held Rizzo without bail in the murder case. Officer P. J. Tracey and State Officers Kirkin and Ferreri were in charge of the murder case.

Rizzo has stoutly maintained his innocence of the crime since his arrest.

Storm Breaks at Meeting

upon the council and asked to be sustained in his ruling. A show of 11 hands followed his request. A number of garage hearings were held and other routine matters having to do with sewer extensions and sidewalks.

A number of petitions were read and dates set for hearings.

Chelmsford Street Pigery

The petition to remove a piggy at the Chelmsford street hospital was read. The board of health recommended that immediate steps be taken to rectify conditions in that neighborhood. Councilor Chadwick told of the conditions and said they are very bad. He suggested that the city abolish the raising of pigs.

Councilor Sadlier, chairman of the board of public safety, said that it had been talked over in his committee but not referred to officially. He said that the superintendent of charities reported that $2,000 was realized a year by raising the pigs. Councilor Adams moved the matter be referred to the board of public safety. This motion carried.

The annual report of the license commission was received and ordered placed on record.

A number of petitions by the Lowell Electric Light Corp. for the erection of poles were read and granted.

White Way in Dutton Street

The petition of John E. Hart and others from the Knights of Columbus that the white way be extended in Dutton street was accompanied by a statement from the board of public safety that no funds were available for the work. The matter was referred to the financial committee.

Albert J. Blazon's resignation as an assessor was read and accepted.

The mayor's veto of the $50,000 fire apparatus loan, authorized at a previous meeting, was read. Councilman Sadlier moved that in view of the fact that the debt limit had been exceeded, the veto be laid on the table. He then moved the order be rescinded and referred back to the committee on public safety. Both motions were carried.

Questions Right of Veto

Councilor Gallagher then raised a point relative to the mayor's action in vetoing certain votes of censure of the mayor in connection with the purchase of a Packard car. At the last meeting the council failed to override the vetoes. Councilor Gallagher raised a point of order upon the matter.

The city solicitor, when asked for an opinion, said that he thought the mayor had the right to veto the censure orders. Councilor Gallagher contended that the council's acts were not of a legislative nature but simply expressions of the council. The city solicitor contended that any resolution, ordinance or order was subject to the mayor's approval.

Councilor Gallagher said that it was his desire that the censure measures be part of the records of the council. Councilor McPadden said that in his opinion the matter was one which concerned the council alone and not the people of Lowell.

Mayor Questions Council

Mayor Brown arose and asked if the council had the feeling that he was discourteous in not appearing as per request of the body. The mayor said that he was unable to attend the meeting that night. He said that on the night in question he was not in the best of health. He said he did not feel that he was discourteous in the matter and assured the body that he would appear before it at any time to answer any questions, if notified properly beforehand.

Councilor McPadden, through the chair, then asked the mayor some questions. He asked who would be the mayor had to take money from the general treasury fund. The mayor said that he made the appropriation as provided by the charter, that every department head should have the right to appropriate money not covered by other items.

General Expense Discussed. Mr. McPadden contended that the general expense account had been "dug into" by the mayor to pay for the Packard car. The mayor said that the councilor had the right to his own opinion.

The mayor charged that the council, through committees, was attempting to run the entire city departments. He mentioned the board of public service and the committee on roads and bridges. Councilors Queenan and Sadlier jumped to their feet and rebuked the mayor to point out instances where either of them had attempted to run the city departments.

The mayor fired back at Mr. Sadlier

Stick to Your Last

If ever I grow great,
I ask this boon of Fate—
No matter what I have to crow about,
May destiny prevent
My daring to comment
On any sort of thing I don't know about.

A big man in his line
Can give advice that's fine
Regarding any trade he's acquainted with,
But when he gives out dope
Of any greater scope
He needs a tarry brush to be painted with.

I'm never very bored
When Mr. Henry Ford
Discusses motor cars with felicity;
And I would never run
From Mr. Edison
As long as he discussed electricity.

But great men such as these
Are likely, by degrees,
To think they have achieved omniscience;
They get up Questionnaires
And talk of World Affairs—
A little of that bunk is a sufficiency!

And so I ask of Fate
That I shall never prate
A lot of empty bosh as I go about;
If destiny is kind,
My talk shall be confined
Exclusively to things that I know about!

(Copyright, 1922, The Lowell Sun)

He also stated that morally the bills should be paid, but legally the thing was a different matter and that in his opinion the company should collect its money from the claims department and not from the street department.

Tierney appealed to the council on the grounds of decency that the payment of the trucks should be made. Councilor Gallagher made a motion that the city auditor be instructed not to pay for the trucks. It was lost by a vote of 5 to 5.

Chairman Murphy then notified the council that it would have to appropriate more money or men would have to be laid off by the street maintenance department. Councilor Appleton said he thought that a loan could be made

Those in favor of not paying for the trucks were: Councilors Adams, Gallagher, Moriarty, McPadden and Sadlier. Those voting for the payment were: Appleton, Bagley, Cameron, Gane, McAlister, McLeinen, Queenan and Stearns. Chretien and Chadwick were absent at this time.

A report of the ordinance committee on zoning was read and reported as approved. Councilor Stearns asked that action be deferred in the matter until each councilor be furnished with a copy of the ordinance. The meeting adjourned at exactly midnight.

The chamber was in an uproar and President Bagley had much difficulty in restoring order.

Councilor Gallagher then interrogated Agent Foye at great length regarding the purchase of a number of cars.

Chairman Murphy said that his board never authorized the purchase of the trucks and that one truck was delivered the day before the bill was presented to the board. He said the board was not in favor of taking $12,000 from the street department unless money was appropriated for them.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Little Louis Corini, 11 years old, has cast consternation among his fellow business men in City Hall park who conduct shoe shining establishments. He has practically cornered the trade by dressing his sister Katherine, 12, in knickers and taking her into the firm. His partner-sister was so successful with her "Don't take those dusty shoes home to the wife, Mister" that Louis had a line waiting for his busy brushes. When asked how he happened to hit upon his scheme to boot-trade Louis grinned and said: "I'm a wise guy; why do they have swell blonde cashiers in restaurants and at the movies? I know. The boys fall easier. My sis ain't a blonde but she's a great partner. We'll knock 'em dead tomorrow."

JOHNSON AND WILLIAMS MEET IN FINAL ROUND

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 4.—William M. Johnson of San Francisco and R. Norrie Williams, 2nd, of Boston, both former national champions, will meet today in the final round of the cup singles on the turf at the Seabright Law Tennis & Cricket club.

Johnson, ranked second among the tennis players in this country, and Williams ranked sixth, have advanced to the finals through an imposing field of players from the four corners of the earth.

Patterson, Anderson and Wertheim, the Australians; Shimizu and Kaeshin, the Japanese; Robert, Rorin and Cochet, the Frenchman, and Tencken, Englishman—all went down to defeat in other rounds. But Johnson and Williams played through.

Williams in the semi-finals mastered Francis T. Hunter of New York, 6-2, 8-7, and Johnson eliminated Robert Kinsey of San Francisco, 6-1, 6-1.

The final in the women's singles will have as principals, Mrs. Mollie Burdett Mallory, the national champion, and Miss Leslie Bancroft of West Newton, Mass. Mrs. Mallory won her place in the final by defeating Mrs. May Sutton Bundy of Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-2, and Miss Bancroft won from the youthful Helen Wills of San Francisco, 5-2, 3-2.

Murphy said that at the last meeting of the board Engineer Kearney stated that it would not be necessary to lay off men as the legal transfers from loans every month would amount to $10,000. Mr. Kearney reiterated his statement by saying that labor and materials used on work performed by loans could be charged up to the various loans and then transferred to street maintenance. For instance, he said, various traffic arteries such as the boulevard, Smith street and other thoroughfares have been put in shape by street maintenance gangs and the labor and material have been paid for from the street maintenance appropriation, while legally such expenditures should come from loans. The only thing that remains to be done is to transfer those amounts from the loans to street maintenance.

Clerk Tuttle argued that the money expended for labor has been transferred, but he is unable to determine the cost for materials. "If you followed out the system established by Mr. Farrington," said Chairman Murphy, "you would know just how you stand."

"I am not acquainted with Mr. Farrington's system," replied Mr. Tuttle, "for the only instructions I received from Mr. Farrington were in the form of a card upon which are set forth the hours of labor of each clerk." Mr. Tuttle further stated that the proper transfers have been made up to June 1, but of course the cost of materials was not included.

"In there anything in your letter that will indicate every week how much can be transferred?" asked Chairman Murphy of Engineer Kearney.

"No, that is up to Mr. Deherly," was the reply.

"How much is owed to street maintenance," Mr. Tuttle asked Mr. Murphy.

"About $10,000, but that does not include truck and stone transfers."

Mr. Murphy said he wanted the work charged up to street maintenance and proper transfers made, so that the appropriation will not become exhausted, and Mr. Tuttle replied that if the board will give him the help and explain the system, he will follow it up.

Supt. Deherly said he cannot follow out the engineer's recommendation without laying off men. "Why did you not keep the payroll down while you were in charge, Mr. Kearney?" asked Mr. Deherly. "You spent the money and now you want me to cut it."

Chairman Murphy said Mr. Farrington has stated that there is help enough in the street department office to carry out his system. "It seems to me," he continued, "that Mr. Farrington's system did a natural death on June 1. It has been the wish of the board that this system be carried out and if instructions had been followed, the chief clerk could tell us every month the amounts of transfers from various loans."

Mr. Tuttle replied that the lack of co-operation is responsible for the present state of affairs. "There are too many major generals and not sufficient privates in the office," he said.

The discussion then went along on the question of transfers, the engineer contending that the trouble is that proper charges are not being made. At this point the members of the board were summoned to appear at the council meeting, and Chairman Murphy stated that another meeting will be held in the very near future and that the bookkeeping system of the department will be properly investigated.

In the early part of the evening the following orders were adopted: Eastern Massachusetts St. Ry. extended tracks in Brookings and French streets and First street; on petition of E. M. Kittredge, that a sewer be laid in Lowellville street; Thos. F. Hennessey, that sewer be laid in Franklin court; Arthur F. McLaughlin, that sewer be laid in Wachusett street.

A communication was received from the Tremont & Suffolk mills requesting that work be started at once on the reconstruction of the Cabot street bridge. The company claims that the bridge has been closed for three months and that it is now a source of inconvenience and danger in case of fire at the mills. The letter was placed on file, and it was stated that no money was available for the work at present.

A letter was received from the engineering department relative to the dangerous condition of the Aiken at bridge over the Northern canal. This bridge must be attended to at once or ordered closed, the letter states, for the closing of the Cabot street bridge has brought about heavier traffic. The communication was referred to the mayor.

A petition was received from L. A. Derby, W. D. Brown, George R. Smith and Walter T. Haxton, asking that Ward street be repaved. It was voted to take a view of it.

The following letter in relation to Sutton P. Wilson, former superintendent of ash collection and later storekeeper in the public service department, was received from George M. Harlow, acting civil service commissioner, and was placed on file.

"I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of July 21 to Mr. Gilbert, my secretary, in which you quote us as requesting you to certify that you have been unable to find a person well qualified for the position of storekeeper in the public service department. If you will read the letter carefully you will see that no such request was made. Furthermore, if you will look over the correspondence regarding the matter, you will see that this division ordered the pay of Sutton P. Wilson for two weeks before you resumed jurisdiction of the department of public service of the city of Lowell."

Yours very truly,
GEORGE M. HARLOW
Acting Commissioner of Civil Service.

"IF IT'S A REAL VALUE IT'S AT THE UNION"

Bostonian Is Training for English Channel Swim

Attempting to swim the English channel has suddenly become a popular outdoor sport with American

If present plans are carried out, no less than five will attempt the dangerous feat, only done once in the last 60 years.

Charles Toth and Sam Richards, Boston swimming stars; Henry Sullivan of Lowell, Mass., who has already made several attempts; Walter F. Conn, of Bridgeport, Conn., and George Walsh, the movie star, are the others who will have a try at the job. Toth is already in England, while the others are expected soon.

Toth has displayed ideal qualifications. Though he did not learn to swim until 34, and is now 44, he has performed many difficult feats in his 10 years at the game.

In September, 1914, he navigated from Charlestown bridge to Boston light, 11 miles in 6 hours and 28 minutes.

Another remarkable performance was swimming from Charlestown bridge to Graves light and thence to Revere beach, more than 25 miles, in 12 hours and 46 minutes. This was in September, 1916.

This spring, in order to test his fitness for the swim across the channel, he swam from the bridge to the other side of the harbor, through water ranging from 43 to 49 degrees in temperature. He made the distance in 4 hours 24 minutes.

The English channel has a width of 21 miles. The distance is not so great, but the waves and tides make it a crossing one of the most dangerous and difficult swimming feats.

Captain Webb was the last man successfully to have its waters about 45 years ago.

CENTRALVILLES TRIM DAYLIGHTS AND MOVE INTO FIRST PLACE

Heavy Batting by Champions, Coupled With Loose Fielding by Daylights, Brought Victory to Foye's Team—Bridgford Stars in Field—Pouliot Pitches Good Game

Leading the Highland Daylights by eight runs, the Centralvilles once more took a chance on the darkness in the seventh last night, but the score was too great to overcome. The boys took a great victory over the Merrimack team, 3 to 5. It was a big night for Centralville, and now that the leadership has been regained, they will retain the twilight championship next year.

The slugging activities of the Centralville wrecking crew sent Louie John Smith to second base, in the fifth inning with one out. Bridgford came in from center to take the same spot of a Hickie, and Hubert going from second to centerfield. Sam Pouliot, on the other hand, was in waiting form and to show his eyes was working in conjunction with his arm. He allowed but one of the opposition to walk to first, struck out three, and gave eight hits, five of which were made in the dark seventh.

Each team scored in the first inning. Freeman was hit by a pitched ball, and took second on Pop Williams' sacrifice, and scored on Greenslade's single. For the Centralvilles, Foye hit to right and Buckle, center, hit to left, for a while and made a bad throw to the infield. Foye going the distance.

The Daylights scored no more until the seventh. Beginning with the fourth, however, the Centralvilles piled up eight additional runs in three consecutive innings. In the fourth, they scored three runs on three hits and an error by Williams and a base on balls. With one out in the fourth, Buckle walked, took third on an error by Williams, and was followed to second by Lynch. He got to first on his ground. Bridgford got a scratch single to second, filling the bases, and on a hit by Lynch scored Buckle, and the Centralville again clattered for a breathing spell.

In the sixth, McCarthy, first up, walked, advanced to second on a passed ball and took third on a wild pitch. Pouliot struck out for his third.

Home Runs by Jacobson and Collins Enable Browns to Win Over Athletics

Giants, With Nehf in Rare Form, Shut Out Cubs—Tigers Win Two

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Home runs by substitute first baseman Jacobson and Buckton Collins accounted for eight of the Browns' nine runs against Philadelphia and enabled the St. Louisans to maintain their hold on first place in the American league.

The Giants with Nehf in rare form shut out the Cubs, 6 to 0, and kept the Cardinals, who defeated Philadelphia, 7 to 1, out of the first notch in the National.

Speakers Indians pounded Mays and Hoyt hard but were checked by Bob Shaver and the Yankees in 10 innings, won, 10 to 0.

Cuba's Tigers still on a batting rampage took two games from the Red Sox and strengthened their third place hold over the White Sox, who dropped a 2 to 0 encounter to the Washington club. Pittsburgh's Red Sox but two hits in their first game at Detroit.

The Pirates, with Glazner hurling well, defeated the Braves, 6 to 1. It was the Pittsburgh fifth straight victory. Philadelphia Grimes allowed the Reds four hits and Brooklyn defeated the Cincinnatians, 4 to 0.

DEMPSEY IN BOSTON

To Box Exhibition Bout With Jim Darcy at Braves Field Tonight

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, came here today to box tonight at Braves field a four-round exhibition match with one of his sparring partners, Jim Darcy of Portland, Ore., was announced as his probable opponent. Both will wear boxing gloves and heavy padded gloves and there will be no decision.

Dempsey will begin training next week at the club for the fight with Johnson at Michigan City on Labor day. His manager, Jack Kearns, announced today.

TYLER TO MANAGE FITCHBURG TEAM

FITCHBURG, Aug. 4.—Lefty Tyler, one time star pitcher for the Boston Cubs and the Boston Braves, will manage this city's new semi-pro baseball club.

ball club. It was announced today. The new club will take the place of that lost when the city's Eastern league club was disbanded and transferred to Worcester.

The advent of George Tyler in Fitchburg baseball circle means that the local man will go to the paper city club to manage the new team. Tyler, a player of note, Fitchburg claims the honor of bringing up Jimmy Callahan, one time Chicago White Sox star and manager, to the city.

Relative to the standard of play in the major leagues, I am positive that sooner or later the growing popularity of golf and tennis is certain to have a serious effect.

Confesses many a youngster who otherwise would be spending his spare time playing baseball.

At the present time Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen are the two most talked about golfers in the world. These two great players is an inspiration to every youngster. Most of them get the championship spirit and hope some day to emulate the deeds of Hagen and Sarazen.

Tennis is a game that has a direct appeal to the youngsters. The other day I saw a prominent American league pitcher who has two boys. He told me neither of them cared a great deal for baseball. Both are crack tennis players. One is a golf caddy when not playing tennis.

Neither golf nor tennis is affecting the attendance at baseball, but unquestionably the two sports are threatening the future standard of skill at baseball because each is luring so many youngsters from the ball field.

No reference is made to the tiger in the bible.

Well Balanced French Team

UPPER, HENRY COCHET. CENTRE, ANDRE GOBERT. LOWER, JEAN BOROTRA

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—The French Davis cup team which is to play the American cup defenders form a well balanced trio.

Andre Gobert, one of its members, has had the European courts gasping with the brilliancy of his game. He is comparatively an unknown player but his record of recent months stamps him as a dangerous competitor.

Jeann Borotra, the second member of the team, is a well known figure on the European courts. He is supreme at the net, volleying sharply and being a wizard at returning overhead shots. One fault that militates against his game is the slinging of his forehead and backhand.

CLUBS AND RACQUETS RAIN SHORTENS PROGRAM OF TOLEDO RACES

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 4.—Rain broke up the race program at Fort Miami park yesterday after three heats had been started, the track being deluged. Before the rain, however, the heavy favorite, Roy Grattan, had been beaten in the free-for-all race, the Ohio gelding, Johnny Quick, turning the trick and pacing the final heat in 2:01 1/2.

There comes a time in the life of every individual when the need for exercise makes itself apparent. Golf is the ideal sport. It offers the best air in the outdoors, with plenty of exercise, yet lacking in strenuousness.

Yet I don't believe golf has entered the minds of many a youngster who would rather play baseball. True, it has taken many a fan to the links instead of the ball field. Yet it seems that for every one who has been lured to golf, a new one who perhaps cannot afford the game is developed.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

With the fall season approaching the prospects for indoor sports here are beginning to take form, and present indications point to the city being a regular scene of sporting events within a few months.

Already many clubs are laying plans to have basketball teams this season and the possibilities of forming a fast semi-professional league are being considered. The game enjoyed a most robust comeback here last season, and many hotly contested games were seen in local halls.

The hectic battles between the C. Y. M. L. and the Y. M. C. L. and the St. Anne's and St. Patrick's teams within several days exhibitions between professional teams brought the game back with a bang that recalled the old days of the "Burrhead" activities. It is expected that all these local outlets will again take the floor, and many others are planning to make their "debut."

Arrangements are under way to receive professional roller polo here, and already tentative circuit, including Lowell has been considered.

Now Bedford and Worcester are enthusiastic over the polo season. Providence and Lowell men are also anxious to again have representation in the circuit. An endeavor is being made, to have Lawrence return to the fold. Several other clubs are being considered for the sixth member.

Boxing is also expected to enjoy another good season and the present plans of Promoter Dodge, who gave the fans some good fights last season, indicate that Lowell will see a number of high class attractions during the year. As he has completed his lease of the Crescent rink for one night a week, he has decided to leave the city and to sign up men in advance. He plans to resume activities on Labor Day, and to continue weekly until the expiration of his seasonal contract.

Following the policy of Lawrence, Springfield and other cities plans are under way. Several other new and bowling leagues. In Lawrence all the mills there have leagues among the women employees and many nights the girls play. Several have come out to play. Last year a number of high class women bowlers were developed, and if Lowell is successful in the plans now under way, there will be a possibility of intercity competition.

BENNY LEONARD PLANS TRIP TO EUROPE

LEONARD, Aug. 4.—Benny Leonard, world champion, plans a trip to Europe in quest of new opponents and to give his mother and sister a European tour. He has been in the city since he took the championship from Freddie Welsh.

Leonard, according to announcement from his training camp here today, will sail for England about Sept. 15, for an indefinite stay. He will meet Ever Hammer of Chicago in a 10-round bout here tomorrow night. He has offered $50,000 for a 20-round bout with Ernie Rice, British titleholder, and also is negotiating for a contest with Gene Roth, the champion of the world on several occasions. Leonard will offer $100,000 for a 20-round bout with Ernie Rice, British titleholder, and also is negotiating for a contest with Gene Roth, the champion of the world on several occasions.

With the exception of the out over his right eye, the champion's handlers say he is in splendid condition. He will have a new eye, and each of the knocked Leonard down in contests with the champion.

Neither Leonard nor Hammer planned to have any serious training today. Hammer says he is satisfied with his condition and that he plans to carry the fight to Leonard from the first bell.

IDEAL SPORT ON MAINE CIRCUIT

FREDERICKTON, N. B., Aug. 4.—Racing under ideal conditions and on a track which was fast, Lambert Todd, a Roaring Brook farm pacer from New Brunswick, yesterday in the 2:15 class, trotting and pacing, went the fastest three heats ever shown by a pacer in his first season out on the track.

The first two were conducted at 2:10 1/2 and the third at 2:12 1/2, but many private watches caught the first time in the 2:10 class.

Reh Russell, star trotter of the stable of Frank Fox, dean of Combina-tion parks on the coast, yesterday broke over the surprise of the afternoon in his win with Lee Barrington, owned by E. L. Morrell of Brook-line, in the 2:15 class.

Disappointed with his drive of Major Frisco, 2:14 1/2, in the third heat of the 2:15 class when Hugh Knib Beatty was allowed to win in second position, the judges fined G. W. Garow of New-Port, Vt., $25.

TO STUDY N. E. R. R. CONSOLIDATION

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—The appointment of a New England committee, headed by Joseph W. Powell, former president of the Emergency Fleet corporation, to co-operate with the governor's committee which is studying possible New England railroad consolidation, was announced today by the chamber of commerce. The members in addition to Mr. Powell are Andrew P. Lane of Bangor, Me.; R. L. Costello of Portland, N. H.; Abbott P. Smith of New Bedford, E. C. Southwick of Providence, R. I.; and W. H. Clark of New London, Conn. This committee will consider the effects of several suggested railway consolidations on the maritime interests of the New England states.

WILL PLAY SERIES OF DOUBLE-HEADERS

Last night the managers of teams and officials of the Twilight league held a special meeting to discuss the matter of postponing games and other routine matters. With seven postponed games, tentatively scheduled to be played after Aug. 18, it was thought the better plan to use the next three Saturday afternoon games, with one double-header on each Saturday, and the seventh game on Monday evening, Aug. 21.

Beginning tomorrow afternoon at 2:45 p. m. the first double-header of the series will be played at Spaulding park. Centralvilles vs. Y.M.C.I. and Centralville vs. Y.M.C.I. will be the opening attraction. On the following Saturday, Broadways vs. Y.M.C.I. and Highland Daylights vs. Y.M.C.I. will be the first two games. On Aug. 12, Centralville vs. Y.M.C.I. will go seven innings each, and the final game with Centralville and Y.M.C.I. as opponents, will be played on Monday evening, Aug. 21. Each game will be played in order, and will consist of seven innings, except in case of a tie. If rain interferes, games will be played after Aug. 21.

Group Doctoring Latest Development in Science Of Medicine Has Many Advantages

IN THE UP-TO-DATE X-RAY ROOM OF THE UNION CITY CLINIC (ABOVE), AND A VIEW OF THE CLINIC BUILDING (BELOW)

By N.E.A. Service
UNION CITY, Ind., Aug. 4.—"Group medical attention" started in the army. The Union City Clinic has introduced it into civil practice.
Its advantages are obvious.
The average patient doesn't know what really ails him. He knows only that he's troubled by certain uncomfortable symptoms. From his description of these symptoms the doctor deduces what is his disease. Then, if the case is unusual, he directs the patient to a specialist—a surgeon, an oculist, a dentist, or maybe, if doubt exist, to an X-ray expert to take a photograph and see. All this cost the patient time and money.

In the army such trouble was eliminated. Plenty of doctors of all sorts were available, working co-operatively. If one of them had a case which puzzled him, there was a specialist for him to consult, right at hand.

In the service during the war, were five Union City physicians to whom the value of "group medical attention" made so strong an appeal that they resolved to keep it up when they returned home.

Group Plan Launched

Accordingly, with a sixth doctor who joined forces with them, they opened offices in the same building in Union City, secured the co-operation of a dentist with quarters less than two squares away, and launched their experiment.

There has been no sacrifice of individuality. Each physician maintains his practice independently, but whenever any one of the seven wants advice or assistance from another, it is his for the asking, and, unless the case is complicated, requiring much work and study, without extra cost to the patient.

This means almost innumerable informal consultations. In addition to which, every Wednesday evening, the members of the group meet to discuss all unusual cases under treatment by any of their number.

Promptness is Assured
The plan further insures a prompt response to all emergency calls. If, when one is received, the physician summoned happens to be unavailable, the services of the member of the group best qualified to take his place are offered, and in several urgent cases this economy of time has resulted in the saving of life.

The first effect of the plan's adoption was to give to Union City and vicinity a medical service in most respect equal to the best obtainable in the largest cities. In the 18 months since the Union City Clinic was established, so much progress has been made that in April the doctors purchased the Union City hospital, and eventually it is their plan to erect a new hospital adjoining their office building.

The experiment has aroused widespread discussion in medical circles, and it is considered probable the plan soon will be adopted in other cities.

COAST GUARD IS 132 YEARS OLD TODAY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—In commemoration of the anniversary of its creation, by act of congress, on Aug. 4, 1790, men connected with the United States Coast Guard will hold appropriate ceremonies today at all New England stations, on revenue cutters, in the Coast Guard academy in New London, and wherever a station or a ship of the service is located within or without the territorial limits of the United States. These observances are held under direction of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Edward Clifford, who has become greatly interested in the development of the service and the welfare of the men since he entered the treasury department, a little more than a year ago.

There are three district headquarters in New England, at Portsmouth, Provincetown and Wakefield, R. I. There are 18 stations in the Portsmouth district and 20 and 15 stations respectively in the other two. In New England territory, there are three revenue cutters, Osage at Portland, Tampa at Boston and Acadia at Woods Hole, each with a crew of approximately 60 men. The average at the stations is eight men. At the Coast Guard academy, the third class of 35 men has just entered, the first and second classes now being on cruise.

Career is Reviewed

A feature of the exercises will be the reading at muster of a dispatch from Asst. Secretary Clifford, which reviews the career of the guard over a period of 132 years. The dispatch in part follows:

"On Aug. 4, 1790, George Washington, president of the United States, approved an act which included, among other provisions, authorization for the construction of not exceeding 10 revenue cutters and specified how the cutters should be officered and manned, and what should be the compensation of their officers, marines and boys. This was an act of the second session of the first congress, and it is of interest to note this entire session was held in the city of New York.

"After the freedom of the American colonies had been won through the war of the Revolution, the Continental navy was disbanded. There was then no sea force available for protection of coasts and maritime interests of the newly constituted United States, until the organization of the revenue cutter service, effected under this act. The cutters formed the only armed force afloat until a navy was authorized a few years later. The officers of the first cutters were appointed largely from officers in the Continental navy.

"It is interesting to know that the first commission granted by President Washington to any officer afloat was issued to Capt. Hopple Yeaton of New Hampshire, in the revenue cutter service.

Services Are Merged

"Aug. 4, 1790, was, therefore, the birthday of the revenue-cutter service, which was merged in 1915 with the life-saving service to form the United States Coast Guard. So, today, Aug. 4, 1922, we are observing the 132nd birthday anniversary of the Coast Guard.

"The dominating thought in your minds today should be an intense pride in the long and honorable record of the service.

"The Coast Guard is no mushroom growth. Founded at the very outset of our national history, it has served the country faithfully and well for 132 years, in peace and in war. The service has played a distinguished part in every war in which this country has been engaged with the exception only of the war with Tripoli; and, with a notable military history it has also established a record that is unequalled for humanitarian accomplishment, in affording succor to those in distress at sea.

"It had behind it a long and honorable past before many of the activities and functions of the government that are now so much in the public eye, were even dreamed of. The service was an arm of the government when the young republic, just acting out on its career of destiny, had yet to convince the world of its prominence; it played its part through all the vicissitudes of our national growth, until today, when it is a valuable and highly respected instrumentality of the greatest nation that the world has ever seen."

Copra cake, the residue after the oil is taken from dried coconut meat, is as nourishing as breakfast.

will not abide by decision of U.S. R.R.

PRESIDENT HARDING says of those who take their places:

"To maintain operation of the railroads in interstate commerce and the transportation of United States mails have necessitated the employment of men who choose to accept employment under the terms of the decision and who have the same indisputable right to work that others have to decline work."

THE U. S. R. R. LABOR BOARD, an impartial body created by Congress, says of such men:

"... that they are not strikebreakers seeking to impose the arbitrary will of an employer on employees; that they have the moral as well as the legal right to engage in such service of the American public to avoid interruption of indispensable railway transportation, and that they are entitled to the protection of every department and branch of the Government, State and National."

It is understood assurances have been broadcasted by strikers that they will return with all seniority rating and previous privileges enjoyed. Let there be no misunderstanding about this: No man who has left our service on strike will be re-employed except as a new man, if re-employed at all, and no qualified man now or hereafter employed, who desires to remain in our service, will be displaced to make room for returning strikers.

GEN. EDWARDS SPEAKS COMMITTEE TO HANDLE COAL SHORTAGE

Says No More War Advocates
Usurping Functions of Government

CAMP DEPENDS, Aug. 3.—Those who preach "No more war in the United States," are usurping the functions of government, Major General Clarence R. Edwards, commanding the first corps army area said today in an address to 3500 New England youths enrolled in the citizens' military training camp here.

"This is a period of disturbance both at home and abroad," Gen. Edwards said. "In many instances they threaten the very root of civilization for they attack the inherent right of the individual to the fruits of his labor and the protection of his property. It is following the course of least resistance to laugh at these disturbances and say that all is well. Safety requires us to be well prepared to meet any exigencies that may arise therefrom."

DR. LOTHROP DEAD
BOSTON, Aug. 3.—Dr. George E. Lothrop, owner of the Howard Atheneum, the Grand Opera House and the Bowdoin Square theatre in this city, died at a hospital here today. He opened his first theatre, the old Haystack Museum, more than half a century ago, and brought out many stars of other days. He was a graduate of Dartmouth College and a native of Providence, R. I.

The sprig is probably a native of China.

ATTLEBORO BARBER FIRES AT OFFICERS

ATTLEBORO, Aug. 3.—Because of reports that drunken men were seen coming from the place, Sheriff Toner and other officers early today broke into the house occupied by Thomas Squarante, a barber in Attleboro Falls, after having been denied admittance. Squarante fired at the officers, but missed. As there were children in the house the sheriff did not return the fire. He and his companions waited outside until Squarante appeared. The latter fired another shot—but again missed and he was placed in custody. In court today he was fined $100 for illegal keeping of intoxicating liquors.

ADVANCE IN PRICE OF SOFT COAL

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 3.—An advance of 50 cents to $9 a ton in the retail price of bituminous coal was announced today. A similar increase was made some time ago. Retail dealers explained this was due to price advances by wholesale dealers about two months ago since which time, they claimed, they had been delivering coal at very small profit.

Formal Dedication of Memorial Bridge

SPRINGFIELD, Aug. 3.—Formal dedication of the Hampden County Memorial Bridge, spanning the Connecticut river here, took place this afternoon when Governor Channing H. Cox delivered the dedicatory address in which he praised the erection of the bridge as evidencing rare public spirit and pledged the co-operation of the commonwealth in projected further development of the river front. Attorney C. W. Bosworth delivered a historic address. Four tablets on the towers of the bridge were unveiled by descendants of personages who had been prominent in different epochs of the county and the ceremony of christening was performed by Miss Julia Sanderson, actress. The bridge was presented to the public by Chairman J. H. Ensign of the Hampden county commissioners.

The feature of the morning celebration was a historical pageant in which virtually all of the 23 towns and cities of the county were represented by floats depicting outstanding incidents in their history. This parade was two miles or more long and included more than 60 floats.

Leaves Famous Paintings to Art Museum

BOSTON, Aug. 3.—The will of Mrs. Mary G. Ropes who was the widow of a merchant of this city and Worcester, filed today, bequeathed to the Worcester Art Museum all her pictures by Dutch, Spanish, French and American artists, with conditional bequests of $10,000 for their care, and $10,000 for additions. The George W. Gill scholarship of $12,000 was created at Worcester Polytechnic Institute for the benefit of poor and deserving students.

Aged Minister Fatally Injured

STOCKHOLM, Me., Aug. 3.—Rev. John Lundgren, Lutheran minister, was fatally injured by an automobile while crossing a street here today. He was struck by a small car driven by Leroy Ewer, traveling salesman for Swift & Co., when he turned back after reaching the middle of the road. Death followed 15 minutes later. He was 84 years old.

Settlement With Quarrymen's Union

VINAL HAVEN, Me., Aug. 3.—Recognition of the union was said to be embodied in a settlement made today by Joseph Leopold with representatives of the quarrymen's union. Work was resumed at once by 100 men who have been on strike for several months.

REED HOLDS THE LEAD NAMED DIRECTOR OF OBLATE JUNIORATE

Long, However, Confident of Winning Out on the Official Count

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—James A. Reed, United States senator, maintained a lead of nearly 7000 votes over Breckinridge Long for the democratic nomination for that office today and Mr. Long based his hope for success on the official count, this being made today, in 325 precincts of the 3548 in the state, the vote stood: "Reed 189,321; Long 182,434.

Experienced observers of Missouri politics who have studied the vote by counties agreed it was virtually impossible for the former third assistant secretary of state to surpass Reed's lead with the limited number of precincts yet to be heard from.

R. B. Brewster, republican nominee for senator, will poll a plurality of approximately 20,000 over his five opponents. William Sacks, light wine and beer advocate, three progressives and one soldier.

McKellar Nominated
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 4. (By the Associated Press.)—Kenneth D. McKellar of Memphis, junior United States senator from Tennessee today held a plurality of approximately 20,000 votes over Captain Gus T. Fitzhugh, also of Memphis, on the face of incomplete unofficial returns from 36 of the state's 95 counties. Captain Fitzhugh of midnight conceded Mr. McKellar's nomination and assured his support in the November election. N. W. Cooper of Nashville, who made the race on a blue law platform, ran a poor third.

SPLENDID NEW SCHOOL FOR ST. MICHAEL'S PARISH

HOW NEW SCHOOL WILL APPEAR WHEN COMPLETED

With the erection of a new parochial school for St. Michael's parish, the construction of which already has begun, Centralville residents will, in the near future, have ample opportunity to boast of one of the most beautiful and impressive architectural structures in this city of Lowell.

Ideally situated on the southwestern corner of Read and Sixth streets, the new building, modern and up-to-date in every respect, will immeasurably enhance the neighborhood, as well as provide an educational institution of excellence.

It was some few years ago that the movement for a new school was first undertaken by the pastor, Rev. John J. Shaw. The rapid growth of the parish and the increased applications for admission to the parochial school eventually brought the pastor to the realization that the present structure and equipment were inadequate to meet the demand, and immediately he sponsored the move for a bigger and better school.

The response on the part of the parishioners was generous and gratifying, and in the course of time, the present monument to the parish grew from a possibility of a reality, when the first spadeful of earth was dug a few weeks ago by the pastor, and the foundation work began by Contractor Zoet A. Houle.

The style is a modification of English Elizabethan which has been found to be the most adaptable to an economical and dignified expression of the modern school house problem.

There will be eight class rooms on each of the two upper floors, arranged four either side of a wide corridor. At opposite ends of the corridor are located the staircases shut off by metal and glass screens from the main portion of the building.

The class rooms are most modern in every respect with the Chicago type wardrobe opening directly from the rooms. These are closed by means of sliding doors during class hours, and are thoroughly ventilated. The windows are arranged for left-hand lighting, the glass area being one-fifth of the area of the room.

The heating and ventilation system is of the unit type which is the most flexible and up-to-date system employed in school house construction, providing as it does the possibility of operating each room individually. It is also claimed to operate on 40 per cent less coal than the old style fan and duct installation. This is the first time that the system has been used in Lowell, although it has proven in sections of Connecticut and New York state to be a decided success.

It is the first time, also, that steel joists have been used in place of wood joists for floor construction.

The architects for the new school are O'Connell and Shaw of Boston.

BOSTON MEN SPEAK AT K.K.K. CANDIDATE BEATEN RAILROAD MEETING

Members of the federated crafts of the Boston & Maine carshops in Billerica, who are on strike, were addressed this afternoon by John J. Connelly, J. Kelley and M. Finnegan, all three of Boston and all officers of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Federated crafts. The meeting was held in the Colonial hall theatre in Middlesex street at 2 o'clock.

It is expected that the Lowell delegates to the conference held in Chicago last Tuesday with President Jewell of the Railway Employees' department, will arrive in this city late this afternoon.

Members of the executive board of the crafts are very indignant over the action of the city council at last evening's meeting in postponing the Arnold hearing for a month. The crafts had representatives at the hearing, who were ready to bring before the council alleged grievances against Superintendent Arnold.

The floor and roof construction is of steel joist and reinforced concrete and all dividing interior walls are of brick and terra cotta block, making the building practically a fireproof structure.

The heating and ventilation system is of the unit type which is the most flexible and up-to-date system employed in school house construction, providing as it does the possibility of operating each room individually. It is also claimed to operate on 40 per cent less coal than the old style fan and duct installation. OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Aug. 4.—(By the Associated Press.) A plurality exceeding 30,000 on final returns for Mayor J. C. Walton of Oklahoma City, democratic nominee for governor of Oklahoma, was indicated today as the unofficial count of the ballot in Tuesday's primary hearing completion. Walton, the choice of the anti-Ku Klux Klan and farmer-labor forces of the state, had a lead of more than 27,000 votes over R. H. Wilson, state superintendent of public instruction and alleged "unreliable employer" candidate, with returns missing from only 603 out of the 2837 precincts in the state.

John Fields of Oklahoma City, republican nominee, who will meet Walton at the polls in November, was assured a majority of around 12 to 1. Hastings, democrat, of Tahlequah, whom she defeated for re-election in 1920, in the second district.

RICHARDS WITHDRAWS

Will Not Be Candidate for Democratic Nomination for Register of Deeds

Louis W. Richards today formally announced his withdrawal as an aspirant for the democratic nomination for register of deeds, thus leaving the field to William C. Purcell, the present incumbent, who seeks renomination. Mr. Richards' letter of withdrawal follows:

To the Voters of Northern Middlesex District:

I have decided to withdraw as an aspirant for the democratic nomination for register of deeds for North Middlesex District.

My reason for so doing is, that after canvassing the entire situation, I find that my physical condition, due to disability incurred in service, will not permit me to make the contest, which would result in a successful outcome. I therefore withdraw.
